WORKING GIRLS' CLUB

Organized at the Boott Mills With Hundreds of Members

Entertainment Rooms Provided by the Company—Agent E. W. Thomas Deeply Interested in the Movement Which Gives Promise of Splendid Results in Mutual Help and a Spirit of Fraternity Among the Girls of the Mill

A movement that will mean more to the mill girls than can at this stage be prognosticated has been inaugurated at the Boott mills and it is said that other mills will follow suit.

A working girls' club has been formed there and its promoters are receiving the hearty co-operation of Agent Thomas who believes it will do much for the comfort and welfare of the girls and he knows the company will benefit by it. Already the club has formed a band of friendship between the mill girls and the company that gives promise of beneficent results.

Nothing so full of promise for the mill girls has been attempted in the Lowell mills since the days of Lucy Larcom.

A Sun representative talked with an official of the company today and he is enthusiastically in favor of promoting the club idea among the mill girls. He cited many instances in which already, through the cooperation of the company, much good has been done.

At the meeting last night Miss Conway gave a very able address outlining the possibilities of such a club. The working girls of the Boott mill may not be aware of the talent and ability possessed by Miss Conway who has on various occasions distinguished herself at conventions of various organizations to which she belonged.

The club had been formed before the arrival of Agent Thomas and once its purpose was explained he did not hesitate to endorse it. A room had been set apart for club meetings and entertainments, and Mr. Thomas says the club room will be enlarged as soon as the members of the club are eligible to membership and it is only a question of time when every girl in the mill will belong to the club.

The club was organized by Miss Della Conway and now more than half the girls in the mill are interested in it. The officers of the club are: Miss Della Conway, president; Miss Margaret Smith, vice president; Miss Mary Carney, recording secretary; Miss Annie Massey, financial secretary, and Miss Katherine Burke, treasurer.

A meeting of the club in the shadow of the looms and spindles furnishes an unusual scene. It is like a pleasant morning dream that puts to flight many a gloomy thought. The girls meet and exchange thoughts. Perhaps their little troubles of the work hour and the meeting cheers them up and lightens their labors.

The individual girl does not feel so terribly alone and she knows that if she is sick and does not put in an appearance at her regular post of duty, her whereabouts and condition will be known to the club. No more will the dull echo mock the call of the mill girl for comrades who will be there to answer and she will be assisted to her feet and back again to health and strength.

Already the club is doing splendid work in putting a little sunshine into the lives of girls who heretofore have

DEPOSITORS LOSE FOUND IN VAULT

Receiver Finds That Coleman's Dead Body of a Lynn Boy Was Shortage is $309,000 Recovered Today

BOSTON, April 16.—Further revelations of the thefts of George W. Coleman from the National City bank of Cambridge, made known in the first official statement of ex-Governor John L. Bates, the receiver, which was issued last night, show that $309,000 was taken instead of $180,000, claimed by the former bookkeeper, and that not only the stockholders but also the depositors will have to share in the loss.

When the stockholders were assessed $100 a share on April 8, it was believed that this extra $100,000 would be sufficient to pay the depositors dollar for dollar, but the statement indicates that this extra amount will be far from satisfying the legal claims of depositors, who must be content with considerably less than the amounts due them.

Just what percentage will have to be charged off it is not possible to announce, but the probabilities are that the loss to every depositor may prove large.

Rumors following the closing of a bank generally place the loss at a greater figure than actually exists, but in the case of the National City bank in the first estimates, which were believed to be exaggerated, have fallen short of the actual figures and each succeeding statement has shown a greater and greater loss.

Estimates of a loss of $140,000, at first made, then $180,000, then $180,000, and recently $250,000. Coleman himself in an interview, said that these last figures were too high and that the total amount of the defalcation would not go over $180,000.

Wipes Out Surplus
Ex-Governor Bates' statement shows that the assets of the bank amount to $238,834.13, and that the liabilities are $428,834.13, a difference of $190,000. This wipes out all the surplus of the institution, the profit and loss balance and amount recoverable from sureties and stockholders and still leaves a considerable balance that will not begin to pay in full the depositors.

The costs of the receivership and other expenses have not yet been determined and those who are familiar with the history of the bank say that the statements of the receiver not only dishearten all hope that the bank will pay 100 cents on the dollar, but clearly indicate that the depositors will have to bear a heavy loss.

Dr. Elliot a Victim
Not only do the shareholders lose the value of their investment in the shares, but they also have to bear an equal additional loss in the assessment that has been levied. A stockholder of Harvard, who believed that he held stock worth $1000, at $100 a share, now finds that not only is his entire investment wiped out, but that he is also liable to an equal assessment of $1000 to be used toward paying the depositors.

Banking men who have followed the successive rises in the amounts taken by Coleman were astonished to learn that the total had reached $309,000 last night and expressed wonder that the bookkeeper had left anything at all in the institution which might be realized upon.

Not Enough for Depositors
The only reassuring section of the receiver's statement was that the assets left in the bank were good and could be realized upon at their face value.

LYNN, April 16.—After being missing since early yesterday, Merrill Neal King, the two and one half year old son of Wilder G. ## STUBBORN BLAZE

Started in Putnam's Restaurant Last Night

Fire broke out in the kitchen of F. E. Putnam's restaurant in The Sun building in Merrimack street about nine o'clock last night and the building would undoubtedly have been gutted but for the prompt response of the firemen and their efficient work after arriving.

The fire was caused by an overheated range in the kitchen and was burning briskly when the department arrived on the scene.

Naturally the alarm from box 13 caused considerable excitement, and a few minutes after it was sounded hundreds of people were on the scene and it was only with great difficulty that a squad of patrolmen under the command of Lieut. Freeman were able to keep the crowd away from the building and give the firemen a chance to work.

The kitchen is in the rear of the building and the fire started about half way up a chimney in the kitchen and broke out in the woodwork in the bakeshop on the floor above. The fire then ate its way up through the partition into the cloak room used by employees in The Sun and from there went into the roof, but the firemen stayed the progress of the flames at that point, although the smoke from the partitions had not ceased for hours.

There was little water damage as the firemen fought the flames with the chemical hoses and steam extinguishers, without the use of the heavier water lines.

At ten o'clock this morning smoke was seen pouring through the upper floor of The Sun building and word was sent to the central fire station, but when the firemen arrived on the scene it was found that there was no fire, the smoke having been caused by the cooking of some meat in the kitchen of the restaurant.

The building is insured with T. C. Lee and company and Fred C. Church.

Fire in Nesmith Street
An alarm from box 49 shortly after six o'clock last night summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in the residence of John McSorley at 34 Nesmith street, a couch having caught fire. The damage was confined to the couch. The building is owned by Blanche McManon and the insurance was carried through the agency of Fred C. Church.

Good time, A. O. H. hall, Mon. eve.

SPITTING SIGNS ARRIVE
The board of health is in receipt of several hundred metallic "spitting signs" that will be posted throughout the city. The signs are white with blue letters. The law relative to spitting on sidewalks and in other public places will be rigidly enforced.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS
The fourth of a series of lectures is to be held next Thursday evening at the rooms.

The local council will have the pleasure of listening to Mr. Charles F. J. McCue, P. G. K. Cambridge Council, on an illustrated lecture on the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

Mr. McCue has a reputation that is second to none as a speaker and his talk on this subject is supplemented by over one hundred colored views which are said to give the audience a great conception of the surroundings of the locality. The lecture will be followed by a musical program in keeping with the merit of the evening after which refreshments will be served.

THE MAYFLOWER
There was received at The Sun office today from Cape Neddick, Maine, two bunches of the fresh and fragrant trailing arbutus, lovingly called "the Mayflower." It was sent by Mrs. George Plaisted. Through Maine as in New Hampshire and Massachusetts the trailing arbutus made bold to raise its precious head at an early date this season. The trailing arbutus has a delicious odor of color that is all its own and by some it is considered the sweetest wild flower that grows.

LIVELY HEARING

Strong Appeal For Extension of Dummer Street

Strong Arguments in its Favor and Little in Shape of Remonstrance — Rev. Mr. Willmott, Pastor of First Congregational Church, Favored the Extension

The public hearing room at city hall was the scene, last night, of a hearing on a petition that is almost old enough to vote. The petition was for the extension of Dummer street from Market street to Merrimack street.

This year's petition, however, bears a great many more signatures than the petitions that have gone before. The hearing was before the committee on streets and it was whispered that the committee is in favor of the petition. O'Sullivan, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, the petition was headed by James Percy Parker and Peter H. Savage.

The First Speaker

James O'Sullivan was the first petitioner heard. He said it might seem strange that he had appeared in advocacy of the proposition for the fourth time as he had no money interests at stake. "But I believe," he said, "that public necessity and convenience demand it."

"This matter was first brought to the attention of the city government nineteen years ago this month. I think I got to the city fathers four times and they voted it down. If you would but watch the great mass of people that come from the Merrimack and other mills and who are obliged to go up Merrimack street and Maiden lane, you might stop to think that they are worthy of some little consideration. They go through Maiden lane because of necessity."

"Again, the proposed extension opens up a natural highway from Ayer Junction to the city hall and railroad possibilities are good in the event of this extension. It would mean a continuous line down to Merrimack street."

Another consideration that must be kept in mind is the fact that a body of our fellow citizens worship at the First Congregational church across the way. There is no peace for them during their hours of worship because of the crowds that gather about the cheap places of amusement in the vicinity. Twenty-five members of the church signed this petition years ago and the extension is necessary in order to relieve conditions at that church. It would do away with the old shacks in that vicinity and would add to the beauty of the city. The names on the petition tell who will pay the bills. As a matter of civic pride we ought to have this extension."

Mr. Burke in Favor

"Hon. John C. Burke said he didn't appear for anybody but himself, and he took interest in the matter because he believed it was one of the improvements that the city of Lowell needs. He trusted the committee would grant the prayer of the petitioners."

First Congregational Pastor

Rev. Mr. Willmott, pastor of the first Congregational church, thanked Mr. O'Sullivan for his kind remarks. He said he did not appear for the church as a citizen of Lowell, but as a citizen of the city of Lowell because of the old buildings surrounding the First Congregational church and other valuable property.

Mr. Willmott said the church would be willing to assume its portion of the expense. He said he had traveled a great deal and he was proud of Lowell. He had never seen more beautiful city buildings in a city of its size and he deplored that on the opposite side of the street there should be old shacks that defaced the beauty of such magnificent buildings. He believed in the "city beautiful" movement and thought that objectionable features should be removed and conditions in general improved.

"I don't believe you could put money in a better venture," he said, "than to extend Dummer street and remove those unsightly buildings."

An Old Signer

Mr. Percy Parker said he had been a signer of the petition for 19 years. He spoke of the general bad condition in Dutton street and Western street, too, he said, had its objections. Dummer street was the natural channel in his estimation. He spoke of the importance of Broadway as a thoroughfare. "This question resolves itself into one of expediency and expense," he said, "and for the total assessed value of property to be displaced he said it was a little more than $60,000. I believe with Mr. O'Sullivan that the extension asked for will pay for itself, as a street that people want. I would like to see the city government favor the petition."

Mr. Carter in Favor

Mr. A. D. Carter said there had always been a great desire on the part of the citizens of Lowell to have Dummer street extended. He believed with Mr. Parker that improvement to property would more than pay the expense. He believed that the old ramshackle buildings should be removed.

Not a Petitioner

Mr. Andrew Laddell said he was not a petitioner but he was in favor of the extension of Dummer street from Market street to Merrimack street. He spoke of the necessity of the extension in order to open the way to the very important civic center.

Improvement Necessary

Mr. C. H. McEvoy said he never knew an improvement that was made by the city that was regretted. He was heartily in favor of the petition.

Gardner W. Pearson

Mr. Gardner W. Pearson said he appeared for four or five of the Greek residents of the city, property owners, and he was in favor of the petition. He thought the extension would pay for itself in a few years. He said the Greek community was also in favor of it.

The Betterment Act

Mr. Stickney spoke in favor of the petition. He asked if the betterment act had been accepted by the city of Lowell and Engineer Bowers answered affirmatively.

Thomas F. Garvey

Mr. Thomas F. Garvey, one of the signers of the petition, spoke at some length in support of it. He spoke of the many hearings that had been held on the question of the extension and he had never heard of any remonstrance. He had gone into the matter so thoroughly as to estimate the amount that the city would lose annually in the way of taxes and he placed the figure at $548.72.

Humphrey O'Sullivan

Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan said that the extension of Dummer street would be a good proposition. He said it would be like throwing light into a dark lane. It would enhance the value of property and argued that the increased revenue and the substantial buildings that would be erected in consequence of the extension, would amply justify the improvement. Some parts of Lowell, he said, are over developed, while others are undeveloped and the city hall section was undeveloped. He had no property interests at stake, but he believed it to be for the interest of the whole city to make the proposed extension.

Engineer Bowers

In reply to a question by Mr. James O'Sullivan, City Engineer Bowers said that while the original estimate was $10,000 the last estimate on the total expense of extending the street was $55,000. Mr. Bowers called the attention of the petitioners to one very important argument they had misused. He said that the children from the given school were obliged to pass through Maiden lane and it, he said, was a very dangerous place for them because of its congestion.

Just One Remonstrant

Peter Chaffin was the only remonstrant. He argued that the proposed extension of Dummer street would mean a permanent increase of 12 cents to Lowell. He said it was all very well to talk about "the city beautiful" but he noticed that Lowell's magnificent buildings had not attracted any industries here of late. Most of them were here before we had such magnificent buildings. "It reminds me of the old Scotch saying: 'Beauty doesn't boil the pot,'" said Mr. Chaffin. After the hearing had been dissolved the committee held a meeting and voted to take a view of the proposed extension next Thursday.

GREAT LOCKOUT

In Building Trades in Germany

BERLIN, April 16.—A lockout in the building trades of Germany began at 6 o'clock last evening. Between 150,000 and 200,000 workers already are known to be affected, but full reports have not yet arrived at headquarters.

Although the employers of Berlin, Hamburg and Bremen have not yet participated in the movement and negotiations for a peaceful settlement are continuing in Munich, the lockout is a most widespread one. Bitter feeling divides the employers, but the contractors are determined to work for the defeat of the trades unions, but it is estimated that 10 per cent. of the employers have declined to join the lockout, being in sympathy with the men's demands. The building material manufacturers have joined forces with the employers in several cities in resolving not to deliver materials to those employers not obeying the lockout mandate. "Up to the present no disorders have been reported."

The lockout was caused by the action of delegates representing Socialist Federation of Trades unions, comprising some 300,000 brick layers, carpenters, masons and laborers, who recently rejected by a unanimous vote a proposed wage tariff of the master builders union.

The members will attend the 7 o'clock mass in a body, meeting in the church chapel at 6:15 a. m. from where they will proceed to the upper church where seats will be reserved in the center aisle. It is the earnest wish of the spiritual director, Rev. Joseph A. Corbin, that every member will be present, thereby complying with the rule of the society and also performing his Easter duty. All indications point to a very large attendance.

The monthly business meeting to be held on April 26 a complete report of the 23d anniversary committee will be submitted. The various sub-committees are working earnestly to make this last year's success and are making gratifying progress. The members of the literary committee are preparing a fine program and promise something new to interest the members. Other business of importance will come before the meeting.

THE FRIAR LAND

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Representative Martin (democrat) of Colorado, who for weeks has been trying in the house to show that the friar lands in the Philippines are being seized by the "sugar trust" with the acquiescence of Attorney General Weeks and the war department, gave to the press last night an interview in which he reviews his efforts, says the government officials alleged to be involved, charges that information which would prove his contentions is being withheld by the war department, and demands a full congressional inquiry into the matter.

Mr. Martin characterizes the action of the republican majority of the house yesterday in defeating his resolution, calling upon the war department for information in regard to the sale of the friar lands, as a "blanketing move."

CONGRESSMAN FOSS

Urges the "Insurgents" to Become Democrats

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 16.—Urging his "insurgent republican friends" to get down from the fence between the ranks of democracy, Representative Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts, democrat, recently elected to congress from a formerly rock-ribbed republican district assailed "insurgency" and the protective tariff policy of the ruling party.

He declared that he now "enjoyed" his various enterprises from 45 to 100 per cent. "I don't need that protection and I ought not to have it. All that I have gained a certain point represents tariff protection. I am willing that the protection should be cut right in half, and then I would have all I am entitled to or need."

In regard to insurgency, he said: "My insurgent republican friends, if you want to accomplish the results you desire, you have got to stop asking and join the opposition party and force legislation along lines that will bring relief. You have been 'insurgents' long enough and what practical results have you secured?"

Read Out of Party

"Sen. Lodge read me out of the republican party six years ago, but I cling to it for I loved it, until my self-respect and my judgment forced me into the party of the opposition. I went out of the party last fall, and in 30 days' campaign on these same issues, cut down a majority of 36,000 to one of less than 8000. Senator Lodge said that I couldn't make the tariff an issue last fall. But before the campaign ended he was defending and praising the Aldrich act whenever and wherever he spoke. It was the dominant issue. It was along the same lines when the opportunity came this spring that I fought the campaign in the fourteenth district and the district which defeated me last fall for lieutenant governor by 5000 votes has just sent me to congress by a majority of 5600 votes."

"It was not a party victory in the fourteenth district. It was a protest by men of all shades of political belief against an economic policy which has made and is still making it more difficult for the average man to stretch his income to meet his absolutely necessary living expenses."

"Life-long republicans sat on the platform side by side with life-long democrats when I discussed the tariff issue and the applause was as hearty from the one as from the other."

CONGRESSMAN FOSS

Urges the "Insurgents" to Become Democrats

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 16.—Urging his "insurgent republican friends" to get down from the fence between the ranks of democracy, Representative Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts, democrat, recently elected to congress from a formerly rock-ribbed republican district assailed "insurgency" and the protective tariff policy of the ruling party.

He declared that he now "enjoyed" his various enterprises from 45 to 100 per cent. "I don't need that protection and I ought not to have it. All that I have gained a certain point represents tariff protection. I am willing that the protection should be cut right in half, and then I would have all I am entitled to or need."

In regard to insurgency, he said: "My insurgent republican friends, if you want to accomplish the results you desire, you have got to stop asking and join the opposition party and force legislation along lines that will bring relief. You have been 'insurgents' long enough and what practical results have you secured?"

Campaign of Publicity

His campaign, he declared, had been one of publicity. The full strength of the republican machine in the state, he said, was exerted in behalf of his opponent.

"The entire campaign was fought on tariff lines," he said. "Our platform was put into the hands of every voter. I discussed the tariff in almost every village and town in the district, pointing out to the voters what this outrageous tariff was doing for them. I endeavored to show them how 'insurgency' affected every article that they wore, ate, or drank, or that contributed to the comfort of their homes."

"While Senators Lodge and Aldrich claimed that the Payne-Aldrich tariff was drawn in the interests of New England and chuckled over the thought that they had given New England more than it was entitled to, the people of this most typical New England district have repudiated fully the Aldrich act, and pronounced it unfair, unjust and inequitable. They realize that it would be disastrous to permit it to remain."

Mr. Foss declared that his election means that the people are tired of the Aldrich bill.

"It is a demand of Massachusetts and of all New England for free raw material, untaxed food products and wider markets. It is a demand that we treat Canada decently and that we take down our tariff wall against her."

"I would go so far as to say," he continued, "that we should do this whether Canada lowers hers or not. We are the sufferers. We need her lumber, her coal and iron, her wheat, her wool pulp, her other products."

"The remedy lies in the hands of the people," he said in conclusion, "and they are going to supply it this fall, else I greatly misunderstand the spirit of the times and the temper of the American people."

SCANDALOUS CLEMENCY.

One of the slayers of ex-United States Senator Carmack of Tennessee was convicted in court after a very careful trial and was immediately pardoned by the governor. It seems that in that case the exercise of executive clemency was made with undue haste and in a manner that indicated a degree of contempt for the decision of the court. The governor in issuing a pardon so promptly did not seem to be swayed by a spirit of justice.

Col. Cooper was sentenced to twenty years in prison, and although the supreme court found no flaw in the trial, Governor Patterson said the trial was unfair. Thus he has set his private opinion above the decision of the courts after a trial pronounced to be fair and in which nobody doubted the guilt of the prisoner. His action is an indirect endorsement of deliberate murder as well as a reflection upon the courts of the state.

THE OBSERVANCE OF ARBOR DAY.

Governor Draper has issued his annual Arbor Day proclamation, appealing to the people in behalf of the trees. It is important that the people should heed the governor's appeal and observe Arbor Day which is set down for April 30th, by planting young trees or doing something to help the growth of the old trees.

It is a fact that many of the shade trees of the city, in spite of the efforts of the park commission, are mutilated in one way or another, so that many of them are likely to die. Some are injured by horses, others by electric wires and a great many by the cutting of the roots when streets and sidewalks are laid out or constructed. No tree can have a healthy growth unless the roots have room to spread out and find the moisture and nourishment which the tree requires. Let everybody comply with the governor's request and do something definite and practical for the trees on Arbor Day.

While the apple crop has been declining in New England because many of the trees are dying, it would be a good idea if those who have the space would plant apple trees or pear trees so as to increase the supply to combat the decline in this desirable crop that has been noticeable for some years past. The apple orchards of New England require renewal; the trees will not live forever, and new trees should be planted. New orchards should be laid out so that as the old die their place may be supplied by trees more productive and bearing a better quality of fruit. There are also good opportunities to raise pears in this and neighboring states, and there is a great deal of land waste that might be utilized for this purpose at a very light expense.

REDMOND'S PARLIAMENTARY COUP.

The British Premier, Mr. Asquith, has scored a signal triumph in the adoption of his "veto resolutions," providing a means of overcoming the domination of the upper house. His victory was accomplished, however, by following the course laid down by Hon. John E. Redmond, the Irish leader, who told the government plainly that he would defeat the budget unless the premier dealt with the veto power of the lords first. The premier did so, and now he has set April 27 for putting the budget through the last stage of enactment. The measure will then go to the lords, and as it has behind it the mandate of the people the lords will not dare to oppose it. Moreover, it is a financial measure and the lords, according to their traditional custom, have no right to interfere with a money bill. They did, however, interfere with this bill, and this is why it was the chief issue in the recent general election. They will not dare veto or amend it now. Hence the budget becomes law and thus one of the most revolutionary measures of taxation ever enacted in England take effect. That will give the liberal party the prestige of having carried one of its pet reforms, one for which the conservatives could offer but the alternative of a protective tariff.

There were exciting scenes in the house of commons when the vote was taken upon the veto resolution. Mr. Balfour as leader of the opposition hurled his scornful epithets at Premier Asquith charging that he had sold out to Mr. Redmond, but there was no "sell out" in the case.

Mr. Redmond told the whole country what he would do if the veto resolutions were not put through before the budget.

Premier Asquith had his choice between a dissolution without having accomplished anything and the acceptance of Redmond's terms which meant the passage of the veto resolutions and also the passage of the budget.

The king will now be asked to create as many liberal peers as will carry the measure over all opposition in the upper house. If he does this then the power of the lords to defeat popular legislation is gone forever.

The conservatives say it is a wiping out of the British constitution, an expression which to Americans may sound strange as there is no such thing as a written constitution in Britain.

The very fact that the Irish party in parliament can thus dominate British legislation is one reason why both British parties should be glad to be rid of the Irish party, glad to pacify Ireland by granting home rule.

It was with ill grace that the conservatives twitted the liberals on having traded with the Irish leader, for were they in power they would be just as ready to offer concessions in lieu of Redmond's support with his band of eighty-two members.

The Tories have often formed a combination with the Irish party in the past, and in the present case it was the Irish party and the laborites who stood by the liberals in one of the most important reforms proposed since the passage of the anti-Corn laws in 1856.

Through all this political excitement in England John Redmond stands prominent as the ablest and most astute leader in parliament. The London papers are of the opinion that there were in either of the great British parties he would still be a leader in oratory, statesmanship and the parliamentary tact that enables him to take advantage of every opportunity to advance his cause.

Premier Asquith has promised home rule to Ireland after the veto power of the lords shall have been overcome, as it would be of little use to send a home rule measure to a house that, with few exceptions, is bitterly opposed to it.

The action inaugurated Thursday night means the ultimate overthrow of the house of lords, as that institution has existed in the past.

The upper chamber will be shorn of the veto power on popular legislation, and it will be deprived also of the hereditary feature under an arrangement that will at least have reasonable deference for the qualifications of the members, something that was never considered under the system now in force.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Samuel A. Cook, ex-congressman from the sixth Wisconsin district, has announced himself a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator La Follette.

Miss Jane B. Haines has opened a school for agriculture for women at Amber, Pa. The school is modeled after the famous school at Swansea, England.

The lists are now practically filled for the coming democratic state primary in Texas. There are five candidates for governor, four candidates for railroad commissioner, four candidates for controller and three candidates for judge of criminal appeals. The candidates for governor are Cone Johnson, Tyler, R. V. Davidson of Galveston, William Polindexter of Cleburne, F. M. Cunyus of McKinney and O. B. Colquitt of Terrell.

Professor Katherine Lee Bates of Wellesley college has recently published the story of Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims, retold for children. Another work of Professor Bates' supervision, the editing of a translation of Gustavo Adolfo Becquer's "Romantic Legends of Spain," a translation by Mrs. Cornelia Frances Bates, affords a rare instance of collaboration of mother and daughter as college women. Prefacing the legends, Professor Bates writes: "A word regarding the circumstances under which this translation was made will be pardoned by all children of dear mothers. Mrs. Cornelia Frances Bates (1826-1908), a graduate of Mount Holyoke in the class of Mary Lyon, and the widow of a Congregational minister, took up the study of Spanish at the age of 71. Until her death, 'labor and sorrow,' her Spanish readings and translations were a keen intellectual delight. So youthful was her spirit that, of the various modern Spanish works with which she became acquainted, nothing fascinated her so much as Becquer's strange, romantic tales. Feeling the pleasure she took in these legends, and learning that no complete English translation existed, I suggested that we unite in a Becquer Book. Her full share of the work was promptly done; mine was delayed; and the volume—which we had meant to inscribe to my sister—becomes her own memorial."

The son of the late Senator A. P. At present, he is presiding officer of the upper branch of the Maryland legislature. Very surprising to his party associates in the state was his announcement from the chair, that the legislature's adjournment would mark the end of his political career.

Many a fashion among French dances was set by the late Duc de Sagan, father of Anna Gould's present husband. Among other fashions was that of wearing a single eyeglass with a very wide black ribbon—a practice followed for many years by Parisians who wished to look "smart." In one respect, however, his most faithful admirers refused to follow the duke. This was when he took to carrying an umbrella on horseback at a race meeting. When a shower came down and the leader of fashion was seen to be holding an umbrella over himself and his horse the sensation was immense. No one ventured to imitate him, however, and ultimately he abandoned the practice.

Professor William H. Schofield of the English department of Harvard has completed his plans for an extensive trip abroad this summer. On the completion of their Icelandic trip they will proceed to Paris, where they will remain most of next winter, as that will be Professor Schofield's sabbatical year. Two years ago Professor Schofield was visiting professor to Germany.

On the completion of the college term he and his family will start for England, thence going to Norway, where they will embark upon a three months' trip through Iceland. Professor Schofield and his party will carry all the paraphernalia for eating and sleeping as their itinerary includes places seldom visited by the traveler, and where there will be no facilities for sleeping in a house. On the completion of their Icelandic trip they will proceed to Paris, where they will remain most of next winter, as that will be Professor Schofield's sabbatical year. Two years ago Professor Schofield was visiting professor to Germany.

The son of the late Senator A. P. Gorman of Maryland has for some years been prominent in Maryland politics as a democratic leader, and many have expected him to seek a career in less national in scope and influence than his father's. At present, he is presiding officer of the upper branch of the Maryland legislature. Very surprising to his party associates in the state was his announcement from the chair, that the legislature's adjournment would mark the end of his political career.

Vallstam, Simonovitch, a clerk in Belgrade, Serbia, on the strength of an increase in salary recently telegraphed to a young woman of Lunitea and asked her to share his fortune. The regulation tax allows ten words for the minimum fee, and her answer ran: "Yes, gladly, willingly, joyfully, delightfully, gratefully, lovingly, yes, yes, yes."

Many a fashion among French dances was set by the late Duc de Sagan, father of Anna Gould's present husband. Among other fashions was that of wearing a single eyeglass with a very wide black ribbon—a practice followed for many years by Parisians who wished to look "smart." In one respect, however, his most faithful admirers refused to follow the duke. This was when he took to carrying an umbrella on horseback at a race meeting. When a shower came down and the leader of fashion was seen to be holding an umbrella over himself and his horse the sensation was immense. No one ventured to imitate him, however, and ultimately he abandoned the practice.

MILKMAN BEST

Gives the Board of Health Some Pointers on His Business

It Is Impossible, He Says, for Milkmen to Put Up Milk in Half Pint Bottles and Stay in the Business—Protest From Trades and Labor Council Heard

The board of health met yesterday afternoon and went over the milk question with a committee from the Trades and Labor Council. The board also heard a few lines from a milkman who happened in at the hearing. He allowed it was all right for the board to look after the milk but he said there was a number of houses in the city that would stand for soap and water and disinfectants. He told of bakers that he had seen going through the city with loads of milk, and he said some of them sitting on the bread. He said he was obliged to leave milk in entry ways that were absolutely nasty.

The committee from the Trades and Labor Council comprised Messrs. Thos. P. Garvey, Joseph P. Convery and Thomas J. Regan. Mr. Garvey acted as spokesman and said, in part: "We would like the board to understand that the Trades and Labor Council is in sympathy with the board of health. We just want to talk the matter over for mutual benefit."

"As we see the boardkeeper is not allowed in all bottles taken to him by customers. "If that is so we feel that a great injustice will be done the poor people. There are many of them who cannot afford to purchase ice, and they depend upon the storekeepers for their milk. The poor people go to the stores and buy a few cents' worth of milk and if your regulations are enforced they will have to pay more for their milk and if they have no ice the milk will become sour."

"This is what the hardship would be worked. Now we came here to talk the matter over with you and to ask you to consider and investigate this aspect of the situation."

In replying to Mr. Garvey, Dr. Martin said it was the object of the board to protect the poor people. He allowed that there would be fewer places where milk would be sold but he thought that would be well. "No storekeeper," he said, "would be allowed to sell milk unless he was properly equipped with cooler and other things necessary for the proper care of milk."

"It is possible that the enforcement of these rules may result in an increase of one cent a quart for milk, but that is not to be considered as compared with the death of one infant," said Dr. Martin.

After a fair trial, if the people you represent feel that a hardship has been worked, we will remedy it if such a thing be possible."

He said there was nothing to prevent the milkman from putting up his milk in half-pint packages. "Several of the milkmen are doing that now," said Dr. Martin.

Milkman's Objections
Amos Best, a milkman, was present, and gave as his opinion that no milkman could afford to put up milk in half-pint packages and sell it at the rate of eight cents a quart.

Dr. Martin asked Mr. Best what he thought of the board making it compulsory for the consumer to send in bottles before returning them to the milkmen. Mr. Best said he thought it was a good thing.

Mr. Best said he did not believe in glass bottles. He thought they were harder to keep clean and less sanitary than the tin can.

When it came to the question of sealing large cans that are left at boarding-houses and other places, Mr. Best allowed that it was carrying the thing a little too far and it was then that he mentioned other things and places that he thought should be looked into. He allowed that the board was devoting a very liberal share of its attention to the milk dealers and that he thought it would be well to distribute some of that attention. "I have seen bakers riding through the city with loads of bread exposed to dust and dirt of all kinds and I have seen bakers sitting in their bread as they passed through the city. I have seen milk cans in entry ways and halls where there were three inches of dirt or more and I've seen the bread that the baker left in the same place. There are a good many dirty tenements in this city that he board might give a little of its attention to. The milkman is not the only one who needs watching."

"If there is sickness in a house you ask who's your milkman. You never ask who's your butcher."

Dr. Martin told Mr. Best that the board was attending to tenements and other things with due diligence and said that the board was not discriminating against the milkmen.

A communication from the board of health, relative to the erection of a contagious hospital, was read and placed on file with the recommendation that Dr. Martin confer with Dr. McGarry of the board of charities relative to the proposed new building.

Mr. Higony said this was the largest amount ever received on "confidence money" and he is at a loss to account for it, as there have been no shortages in accounts for years.

NIGHT EDITION
AN EXCITING TIMEA Colored Man Was the Centre of Attraction

There was excitement galore in Central and Prescott streets about one o'clock this afternoon and but for the fact that there were a number of cool-headed people in the crowd of 400 or 500 people who congregated in the rear of the Southwick Block in Prescott street, John T. Jackson, a young colored man, who, it is said, assaulted B. Frank Allen, would have been severely punished.

When he arrived at the police station he was questioned by Lieut. James Brosnan, and from what the latter could learn from both the complainant and the young colored man the assault was provoked and Jackson was allowed to go after he had satisfied the police that he could be located if wanted.

Jackson, when taken to the police station, admitted that he had struck Allen, who is a newsboy, because he said that Allen and other boys had been plaguing him. He said that he was passing the New American House about one o'clock when Allen approached him and asked if he desired to purchase a newspaper. Jackson replied in the negative, and then the Allen boy and others started chattering. "Well, Jackson, how do you think you will come out in the fight with Jeffries," "O, you con," and other insulting remarks.

Jackson said that he lost his temper for the moment and gave Allen an open-handed. He thought nothing more of the affair until he heard cries of "Murder," "Stop thief," and "Police," and realizing that a crowd had formed, he was chasing him, he took to his heels, ran through Prescott street, turned into the alleyway between the Belvidere hotel and the Bay State Dive House and managed to hide himself in one of the various basements in the rear of the building.

The crowd which gathered in Central street grew in size every yard that the chase proceeded and when the alleyway off Prescott street was reached there were fully 500 people present. Some knew all about the assault while others were anxious to learn what the trouble was.

Patrolman John Healey, who was off duty, located Jackson in the basement of one of the buildings and taking him in charge escorted him to the police station. The Allen boy also was taken in order to enter a complaint.

When Lieut. Brosnan heard both stories he did not believe that there was sufficient cause to hold Jackson, but in the event of Allen's father wishing to make complaint he will be very easy to locate Jackson.

FINNEY TESTIFIED

At the Hearing of the Ballinger-Pinchot Case Today

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Edward Finney, assistant to the secretary of the interior, continued his testimony today before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee. He was questioned further about official acts of Mr. Ballinger and insisted that the secretary had acted in good faith in turning over the Cunningham claims to Assistant Secretary Pierce. There was a full attendance of the committee today as an important question was to be decided. Attorney Brandeis requested yesterday that he be allowed to defer cross examination of Mr. Pierce and other subordinates of Mr. Ballinger until after he had an opportunity to examine the secretary himself. The committee appeared to be divided on the question, so action on it was postponed until today.

Mr. Verrees examined Mr. Finney as to various matters which had been discussed by witnesses for the prosecution. It has been claimed that Secretary Ballinger modified a contract from Lake Tahoe in California and Nevada, so as to give the company better terms. Mr. Finney said that every contract relating to Lake Tahoe water was prepared by the reclamation service.

Mr. Finney also replied to the criticisms of Secretary Ballinger by Director Newell and Chief Engineer Davis, of the reclamation service. These witnesses asserted that Atty. Gen. Wickham held the co-operative certificates or "Garfield Currency" to be illegal because he had been led to believe that there were no funds in the reclamation fund whereas some $2,000,000 was available.

Mr. Finney said that when the matter first was presented to the attorney general, both Messrs. Newell and Davis were writing that there was no money on hand for new projects of any sort. He said also that after the opinion had been rendered, Newell complained that the statement of facts to the attorney general was not a fair one and he believed that if the reclamation service had been allowed to present the matter, the opinion would have been different.

"It was agreed then that a new case should be presented to the attorney general," continued the witness, "and so a complete statement prepared by Mr. Newell was included in the papers, on which a second opinion was asked. The second opinion confirmed the first one."

Mr. Finney was cross-examined by Mr. Brandeis, who said he would defer some of his questions until after the committee ruled as to whether he could cross-examine witnesses after Secretary Ballinger had been heard.

Mr. Brandeis asked if there was anything in the record to show that Attorney General Wickham had "one-tenth of evidence" before him to justify his statement that Glavis took no action toward criminal prosecutions in the Cunningham cases. Mr. Finney said papers looking to criminal prosecutions were sent to Glavis at his request but that no action in court had been taken.

"I said nothing about action in court," snapped the attorney.

Brandeis proceeded to show that at the time the attorney-general made his statement regarding Glavis on papers submitted to him there were in the land office various daily reports by Glavis and Special Agent Jones regarding conferences with Dist. Atty. Todd at Seattle; also letters from Todd and Glavis regarding the conferences.

Mr. Brandeis was still questioning the witness when recess was ordered.

ALCOHOLISM

Thirteenth Sudden Death is Reported in Westerly, R. I.

WESTERLY, R. I., April 16.—The thirteenth sudden death in this and surrounding towns within the last two weeks, five of which are known to have been caused by drinking whiskey containing wood alcohol, and wood alcohol poisoning suspected as having been the cause of the remaining cases, occurred shortly before midnight last night when Deputy Sheriff Eugene W. Coon, who was called to attend the suffering man, stated that death was caused by alcoholism and heart failure. As there is no suspicion of wood alcohol poisoning, Dr. Smith says that he will not report the cause to the medical examiner. Deputy Coon, who for several years was chief of police of this city, leaves a widow and two children.

Town Solicitor H. B. Agard and Chief of Police Bransfield stated today that they have evidence under oath which will prove where the liquor which evidently caused the death of Daniel L. Sullivan last Wednesday was bought. Although they declined to give out the name of the party who sold the liquor to Sullivan they say that it was not bought at a drug store. At the conclusion of the autopsy on the body of John McAvoy, who died Thursday, Medical Examiner Morgan, who conducted the investigation, stated that death was caused by chronic nephritis as shown by the condition of the kidneys and that there was no evidence of wood alcohol poisoning.

STRIKE LEADER

Will Urge That Terms of Settlement be Accepted

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Striking motormen and conductors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. will meet this afternoon to take action on the company's last proposition for ending the strike which began nine weeks ago today. The propositions agreed upon by the executive committee of the strikers Thursday has not yet been made public but it is believed to differ very little from the offer made on March 20.

C. Pratt, national organizer of the Carmen's union, will present the offer to the men at the meeting and urge that it be accepted. He said today that he felt that the men would take his advice and that it is expected the men will return to work tomorrow or Monday.

The great majority of strikers do not know the details of the agreement reached and the radical ones among them are going into the meeting prepared to fight the proposition unless the company agrees to more concessions than they have been led to believe it has granted.

TENEMENT HOUSES

Deplorable Conditions in Certain Sections in Boston

BOSTON, April 16.—Deplorable conditions among the tenement house people of the North and West End sections of the city and suggestions for their moral and physical welfare are contained in the report of the housing committee of the Boston 1915 movement, made public today.

It is claimed that 20,000 people live in what is known as submerged conditions and that the congestion is practically a menace to the community.

The committee finds that 84 per cent. of four typical blocks in these sections are covered by buildings. Halls and stairs are dark, dirty, inadequately ventilated and less than three feet wide.

There is an average of one water faucet to each family and one water closet to two families of eight persons each.

In many cases less than 350 cubic feet of air is supplied to each person which is below the lowest standard fixed in any city in this country or in Europe.

The average rent is $11.50 a month, or nearly a dollar a week to each person.

The committee suggests that there is sufficient law vested in the board of health to better the conditions, provided the board was given the money and the backing of vigorous public opinion.

Strong Appeal For Extension of Dummer Street

Strong Arguments in its Favor and Little in Shape of Remonstrance — Rev. Mr. Willmott, Pastor of First Congregational Church, Favored the Extension

The public hearing room at city hall was the scene, last night, of a hearing on a petition that is almost old enough to vote. The petition was for the extension of Dummer street from Market street to Merrimack street.

This year's petition, however, bears a great many more signatures than the petitions that have gone before. The hearing was before the committee on streets and it was whispered that the committee is in favor of the petition. O'Sullivan, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, Pastor of First Congregational Church, Favored the Extension.

The hearing was before the committee on streets and it was whispered that the committee is in favor of the petition. O'Sullivan, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, Pastor of First Congregational Church, Favored the Extension.

Mr. Burke in Favor

Hon. John C. Burke said he didn't appear for anybody but himself, and he took interest in the matter because he believed it was one of the improvements that the city of Lowell needs. He trusted the committee would grant the prayer of the petitioners.

First Congregational Pastor

Rev. Mr. Willmott, pastor of the first Congregational church, thanked Mr. O'Sullivan for his kind remarks. He said he did not appear for the church as a citizen of Lowell. He spoke of the danger from fire because of the old buildings surrounding the First Congregational church and other valuable property.

Mr. Willmott said the church would be willing to assume its portion of the expense. He said he had traveled a great deal and he was proud of Lowell. He had never seen more beautiful city buildings in a city of its size and he deplored that on the opposite side of the street there should be old shacks to deface the beauty of such magnificent "city beauty" movement and thought that objectionable features should be removed and conditions in general improved.

"I don't believe you could put money in a better venture," he said, "than to extend Dummer street and remove those unsightly buildings."

An Old Signer

Mr. Percy Parker said he had been a signer of the petition for 10 years. He spoke of the general bad condition in Dutton street and Worthen street, he said, had his objections. Dummer street was the natural channel in his estimation. He spoke of the importance of Broadway as a thoroughfare. This question resolves itself into one of expediency and expense," he said, "and for the total assessed value of property to be displaced he said it was a little more than $50,000. I believe with Mr. O'Sullivan that the extension asked for will pay for itself. It's a street that people want. I would like to see the city government favor the petition."

petition tell who will pay the bills. As a matter of civic pride we ought to have this extension."

Mr. Burke in Favor

Hon. John C. Burke said he didn't appear for anybody but himself, and he took interest in the matter because he believed it was one of the improvements that the city of Lowell needs. He trusted the committee would grant the prayer of the petitioners.

First Congregational Pastor

Rev. Mr. Willmott, pastor of the first Congregational church, thanked Mr. O'Sullivan for his kind remarks. He said he did not appear for the church as a citizen of Lowell. He spoke of the danger from fire because of the old buildings surrounding the First Congregational church and other valuable property.

Mr. Willmott said the church would be willing to assume its portion of the expense. He said he had traveled a great deal and he was proud of Lowell. He had never seen more beautiful city buildings in a city of its size and he deplored that on the opposite side of the street there should be old shacks to deface the beauty of such magnificent "city beauty" movement and thought that objectionable features should be removed and conditions in general improved.

FINE WEATHER MARKED THE OPENING DAY

NICE, France, April 16.—Fine weather greeted the opening day of the ten day aviation meeting on the Champs d'Aviation de La Californie. The program includes ten events, for which $53,500 is offered in prizes.

M. Offmoff, in a Farman biplane, carried off all the honors yesterday. These included those offered for starting in the shortest distance, with and without passengers, in which M. Offmoff rose from the ground respectively in 59 and 100 meters.

Offmoff also leads in the total distance traversed and fastest lap events. The purse for the former is $10,000 and for the latter $5000.

King Gustav of Sweden and the Prince of Saxe-Meiningen and a number of Americans witnessed the events yesterday.

ST. PATRICK'S HOLY NAME

The regular quarterly communion Sunday for the Holy Name society of St. Patrick's church will be next Sunday, April 17. The members will attend the 7 o'clock mass in a body, meeting in the church chapel at 6.45 a. m. from where they will proceed to the upper church where seats will be reserved in the centre aisle. It is the earnest wish of the spiritual director, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, that every member will be present, thereby complying with the rule of the society and performing his Easter duty. All indications point to a very large attendance.

At the monthly business meeting to be held on April 25 a complete report of the 33rd anniversary committee will be submitted. The various sub-committees are working earnestly to securing last year's success and are making gratifying progress. The members of the literary committee are preparing a fine program and promise something new to interest the members. Other business of importance will come before the meeting.

NO LOSS OF LIFE

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, April 16.—The earthquakes which have been felt for the last 48 hours are now decreasing in number and violence. A majority of the people continue badly frightened and are living in the open, refusing to re-enter their homes. The government has adopted measures to assist sufferers throughout the country.

There has been no loss of life as a result of earthquakes.

Celebrated His Golden Wedding

Although Mr. Foster, a well-known Undertaker of Jersey City Heights, N. J., has been Exposed to Every Kind of Contagious Disease, He Has Always Enjoyed the Best of Health, and is Now 74 Years of Age.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is His Only Medicine, and it Keeps His System in Such Perfect Condition That it Wards Off the Attacks of All the Germs With Which His Business Brings Him in Contact.

He recently wrote: "I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for a great many years and have found it to be the best tonic stimulant for old people. I am 74 years old, have been in the undertaking business 55 years and have exposed myself to every known contagious disease, but I have never taken anything to prevent contagion except Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in small doses as a tonic. I have found that your whiskey keeps me in the best of health. On January 30, 1910, my wife and I celebrated our Golden Anniversary. I sincerely hope my letter will convince others that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a great blessing and help to those along in years." David Foster, 589 Palladium Ave., Jersey City Heights, N. J.

Not a Petitioner

Mr. Andrew Liddell said he was not a petitioner but he was in favor of the extension of Dummer street from Market street to Merrimack street. He spoke of the necessity of the extension in order to open the way to the very important civic centre.

Improvement Necessary

Mr. C. H. McEvoy said he never knew an improvement that was made by the city that was regretted. He was heartily in favor of the petition.

Gardner W. Pearson

Mr. Gardner W. Pearson said he appeared for four or five of the Greek residents of the city, property owners, and he was in favor of the petition. He said the extension would pay for itself in a few years. He said the Greek community was also in favor of it.

The Betterment Act

Mr. Stickney spoke in favor of the petition. He asked if the betterment act had been accepted by the city of Lowell and Engineer Dowers answered affirmatively.

Thomas F. Garvey

Mr. Thomas F. Garvey, one of the signers of the petition, spoke at some length in support of it. He spoke of the many hearings that had been had on the question of the extension and he had never heard of any remonstrance. He had gone into the matter thoroughly as to estimate the expense and the city would lose annually in the way of taxes and he placed the figure at $68.72.

Humphrey O'Sullivan

Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan said that the extension of Dummer street would be a good proposition. He said it would be like throwing light into a dark lane. It would enhance the value of property and argued that the increased revenue and the substantial buildings that would be erected, in consequence of the extension, would amply justify the improvement. Some parts of Lowell, he said, are undeveloped, while others are undeveloped and the city hall section was undeveloped. He had no property interests at stake, but he believed it to be for the interest of the whole city to make the proposed extension.

Engineer Bowers

In reply to a question by Mr. James O'Sullivan, City Engineer Bowers said that while the original estimate was $51,000 the last estimate on the total expense of extending the street was $55,000. Mr. Bowers called the attention of the petitioners to one very important argument they had misused. He said that the children from the Green school were obliged to pass through Maiden lane and it, he said, was a very dangerous place for them because of its congestion.

Just One Remonstrant

Peter Charlton was the only remonstrant. He argued that the proposed extension of Dummer street would mean a permanent increase of 12 cents to Lowell. He said it was all very GRAHAM, Va., April 16.—The town of Cleveland was practically wiped off the map by fire last evening.

THE FRIAR LAND

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Representative Martin (democrat) of Colorado, who for weeks has been trying in the house to show that the friar lands in the Philippines are being seized by the "sugar trust" with the acquiescence of Attorney General Wickersham and the war department, gave to the press last night an interview in which he reviews his efforts, assails the government officials alleged to be involved, charges that information is being withheld by the war department, and demands a full congressional inquiry into the matter.

Mr. Martin characterizes the action of the republican majority of the house yesterday in defeating his resolution, calling upon the war department for information in regard to the sale of the friar lands, as a "blanketing move."

Campaign of Publicity

His campaign, he declared, had been one of publicity. The full strength of the republican machine in the state, he said, was exerted in behalf of his opponent.

"The entire campaign was fought on tariff lines," he said. "Our platform was put into the hands of every voter I discussed the tariff in almost every

REPLIES TO THE COMMENT OF SENATOR LODGE

BOSTON, April 16.—Former Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., in a statement issued last night replies to Sen. Lodge's comment on the New Haven merger issue. The former governor states that he did not appoint a commission expressly to investigate the merger and no commission was authorized with that special object in view. Later the committee appointed to investigate commerce and industry took up the merger project. Of the report of this committee Mr. Guild says:

"Far from any heavy and unconditional approval of the merger, three of the six who considered it, and the three who favored the merger only did so under strict condition of supervision. I made no attempt whatever to influence the report of that commission or of any commission."

CHEAP AND INFORMAL ENTERTAINING

AFTERNOON tea is certainly one of the nicest, simplest and least expensive ways of entertaining friends informally, and most women enjoy the congeniality of a few kindred souls far more than large formal affairs. During the late spring and early summer months the tea is served on the porch or under the trees in the garden if the hostess is lucky enough to possess such a charming environment in ideal settings for the daintily equipped tea table, a silver service is always lovely for such a table, but delicate china seems more appropriate to the informality of such an occasion.

Among the illustrations the afternoon tea hostess will find in the garden hat centerpiece a charming floral decoration, which would be especially appropriate for porch parties. The straw hat is caught up into a jaunty basket shape and tied about with gauze ribbon the shade of the color scheme. Poppies and grasses fill the hat seen in the picture. Tea, chocolate or some kind of fruit punch is usually served at these 6 o'clocks and often all three beverages when the affair is large and rather formal. But there are some staunch souls who prefer their cup of coffee and drink tea only under protest. It would save the hostess some embarrassment if she could know beforehand the varying tastes of her guests, then she could gather together the tea devotees and coffee fiends on separate days.

A kaffee klatch for the last named guests would be just the thing, and the tray illustrated, attractively set for the German afternoon function, may give the hostess an idea of the latest equipment in this line. The coffee set is of colonial design carried out in silver, and the cups and plates are of finest Dresden china. The high vase at one side of the tray is filled with roses and sweet peas.

When a small 5 o'clock tea party is being entertained it is easier to have the tea made in the kitchen and brought in with the tea things on a tray. Tea with sandwiches or little cakes and nuts and candies are sufficient refreshments. There are many varieties of sandwiches, but the secret of a delicious ham sandwich served recently at an afternoon tea was in the cooking of the ham and in the abundance of the mayonnaise used in mixing. The ham had been boiled until it was brown and then ground very fine and mixed plentifully with mayonnaise. The meat may be cooked in the oven, a thin slice being allowed to bake until it is well browned, or the ham may be fried. There is more definite flavor about ham cooked in any of these ways than there is if it is boiled. Sandwiches spread with quince jelly

FOR THE BLOUSE MAKER.

THE maker of the summer blouse will welcome the last new touches on these useful garments. There is every season some device for the decoration of each separate garment for women. This year coronation braid is applied upon a strip of elany lace forming the front of a fancy tucked linen blouse. Begin with two lengths of braid, sew them fast at the center of the lace strip under the collar band, crisscross them down the front in a diamond pattern and repeat the decoration on the collar and cuffs of lace. Black, white and mulberry colored mercerized cotton is used in one conventional design on the front box plait of a fancy shirt waist.

In the shops a white cotton batiste blouse opened at the back and trimmed in front with one strip of three inch wide hand crocheted lace which is repeated on collar and cuffs and as a stock collar is marked $5. Count the cost of this waist if made at home.

Crocheted thread lace is easy to make when regarded as pick-up work, and your making it will reduce the cost of the blouse to the value of two yards of cotton batiste and one spool of thread, with nothing for the making if you are clever with your needle.

Blue cotton cross stitching on a white linen shirt waist or fancy blouse is good style that will not be overpopular because it requires little planning of the design to fit it upon each section of the blouse.

A WATCH FOR THE CUFF.

With many of the mannish jackets the stiff linen cuffs are being affected. The latest novelty is a cuff watch, to be inserted as a button in the left cuff, just as a stud would be. It is inconspicuous and very convenient, for the maker of the watch guarantees that the size of the timepiece in no way interferes with its reliability as a timekeeper.

To the women who refuse to wear their watches pinned in (tempting to the thief) array at the front of the bodice and to the ones who cannot with convenience push one below the belt this new idea comes as a suggestion. Whether it will be adopted is another question. For a motorist of either sex this cuff watch ought to prove a happy thought.

WHEN WASHING UP.

All cups and pitchers should be occasionally scrubbed around the handle with a well soaped, stiff brush. If this is not done they are apt to get a grimy appearance that is anything but appetizing.

Never use soap when washing china with gilt on it. If you do, do not be surprised if the gilt gradually disappears.

Soapy water will clean it quite as well without doing any harm.

TO CURE A COLD.

To a trained nurse is due this somewhat unusual remedy for a cold which if taken in time is infallible:

To a glass of milk add a teaspoonful of powdered ginger. Sip slowly. If a sense of chilliness is felt the milk can be made hot, but not boiling. This simple remedy has been known to break an apparently bad cold overnight, but the milk should be taken when the first creepy sensations are felt.

and sprinkled with minced nuts are very appetizing, and a filling of fig paste sprinkled with ground peanuts is also good. The figs are boiled until they can be mashed into a paste and are then seasoned lightly with lemon juice. A new wrinkle is to serve little French rolls stuffed with shredded chicken dressed lightly with mayonnaise. As the sandwiches are usually made early on the day of the tea, a fine way to keep them moist is to lay them in a covered tin box on the bottom of which have been placed some lettuce leaves. Wring out of cold water a piece of table linen almost dry and line the box. On the bottom place a few of the bread crusts to absorb any moisture which may cling to the linen. Cover the top of the box in the same way and put the lid on tight. Cared for in this way, the sandwiches may be kept fresh several hours.

When fruit punch is desired fill punch glasses half full of sliced pineapple and oranges and top the mixture with mint ice. Lemon or orange ice may be used instead of the mint.

The hostess of today in her search for novelties often achieves in her experimentation some delicious new combinations of food as well as improvements on the old recipes. One idea that results in a novel mingling of flavor is the mixing of two kinds of stock for bouillon served at card parties and similar occasions. To be handed with the soup to supplant the usual salted crackers are buttered slices from the sandwich loaf neatly trimmed and wound around crisp stalks of celery dipped in mayonnaise.

For a spring luncheon the individual service shown in one of the illustrations is charming. The menu is written on heavy cream paper in envelope form, the flap decorated with hand painted spring blossoms. The miniature favor basket is of green satin straw filled with real flowers, while a butterfly hovers over them in realistic fashion. The ices served could be made in the form of butterflies and colored daintily.

If there is one feature more than another that the smart entertainer expects her ingenuity upon it is the question of frozen delicacies. The day is past when a neapolitan, vanilla or chocolate block or mold is considered good form.

There is a fashion item connected with smart afternoon tea etiquette which is very amusing. I refer to the new "tea and toast veils" that have meshes so conveniently flexible that milady may slip her tea through the coarse silk openings. It is no uncommon sight to see women drinking afternoon tea and nibbling toast through the new veils without discomfort.

DAPHNE DEAN.

Tasty Food For Spring Tables.

DELICIOUS sauce for meats may be made of dried apples and peaches. Use equal parts of peaches and apples and soak them three or four hours in cold water. At the end of that time simmer them until they are tender, rub them through a colander and season with sugar, cinnamon or cloves to suit the taste. The sauce makes excellent pies. A little lemon juice either for the sauce or the pie is an improvement.

For light potato croquettes mash and season hot potatoes as if for table, add the yolk of an egg and beat very light. Form the paste into croquette shapes, roll in egg and cracker crumbs and place on ice. Fry in deep fat when the croquettes are very cold.

A fair imitation of planked fish may be made on a platter. Put the baked or broiled fish in the center of a dish and rim it with seasoned mashed potatoes dropped around by the tablespoonful in egg shaped portions, alternating with wedges of lemon and sprigs of parsley.

Very thin slices of bread buttered and put together in sandwich fashion with a thin slice of meat or cheese may be toasted on both sides until they are heated through. Serve hot.

Apples fried with bacon make a tasty breakfast dish at this season of the year when the appetite begins to be jaded. Baked apples are delicious served on individual dishes, the apples broken apart and the broken sides and space filled with whipped cream sprinkled with nuts.

A good way to use left over celery is to stew it tender, mixing it with a white sauce and turning it over toast. The water in which the celery boils should be mixed with cream for the sauce, or the water may be used to dip the toast in before the sauce is turned over it.

IN THE WORLD OF MOODS.

A MOTORING coat of mercerized cotton is a splendid investment and an inexpensive one as well. These coats come in cream and drab color. A silk and cotton mixture makes a serviceable coat, and for summer white drill is smart, although the cost of laundering makes it expensive.

Blues are fashionable this season in many tones. Navy blue, goblin, delft, porcelain, royal, cadet, and clo are some of the shades that find favor. Think of being sent for samples of blue with trimmings to match!

The new veil is of a very coarse silk flit mesh of gossamer-like texture. But the main point about the veil is its arrangement. It is divided in front, falling from the hat in straight lines at each side and the back.

On many white linen coat suits gilt buttons are used to carry out the military air. Crochet buttons that are works of art are used sparingly on linen frocks and shirt waists, and buttons of plaited braid carry out the decorations of many cloth costumes.

Quaintly printed cottons in old world designs are being made up into blouses for wear with coat and skirt suits, the plain color of the suit being echoed in slight touches on the blouse, or the blouse material finds its way into cuffs and collar on the coat.

The sleeve of raglan or kimono cut is in again. It is none too easy of accomplishment, and there is no cause for dissatisfaction on the part of the amateur who is not wholly successful in her first attempt. It needs a certain breadth of shoulder and should be avoided by those who would gain width in effect at least. The raglan sleeve in the main has a narrowing effect, but is well suited to the woman of comfortable proportions and generous shoulder measurements.

When the Lamp Is Lit

Musings of Elinor Hite

THE grownup brother of the family often has a role assigned him—a role he does not take up voluntarily—that of matchmaker for his sisters. And I reckon it is his blissful unconsciousness that enables him to play the part to perfection.

The brotherless girl has fewer chances of meeting eligible men, and when she does the opportunity of cultivating and fostering the acquaintance may not be forthcoming.

True, she may have a matchmaking mother, but this is often a handicap rather than a help.

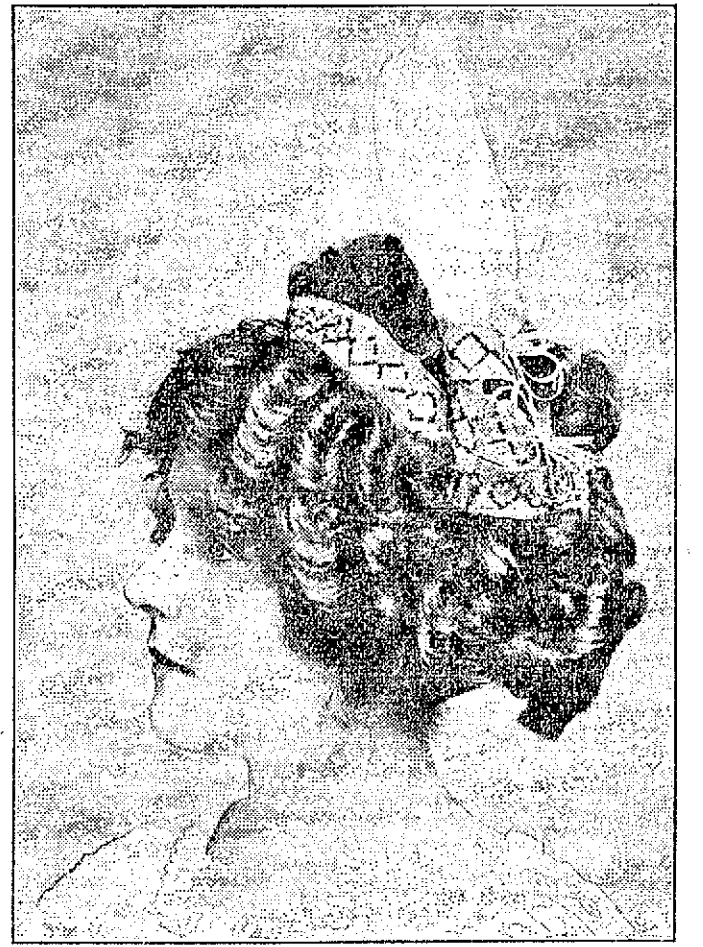

The unwilling benedict too often discerns the part that a maneuvering mamma is playing in the affair and resents it. But when one of his friends takes him home to dinner or invites him for a week and visit he goes without being in the least aware of the danger there might be in it for a freedom loving bachelor.

The brother is usually blind to the charms of his own womenfolk; that the idea of any one falling in love with them never strikes him, and when at last he realizes the truth he does not always approve of it.

But the brother has no longer any part in the matter; his work is done.

Decidedly the girl with brothers has more advantages, matrimonially speaking, than the girl without. She has everything done for her without any connivance or planning on her own part.

The Chanticleer Headdress

THE chanticleer idea has now reached hair ornaments. The fetching arrangement illustrated is made of silver ribbon, with a miniature white couque tail as a finishing decoration to the metallic bands which extend around the back hair dressing and end at the left side.

Artistic Furnishings For the Summer Bungalow

LIVING AND DINING ROOM INEXPENSIVELY FURNISHED.

MANY people of moderate means are nowadays building inexpensive bungalows in which to spend the summer months. In a number of instances these homes are put up by professional women who pool their interests in building, furnishing and running the bungalow.

The floor covering on the two rooms is of generous sized straw rugs in a charming shade of dull green, with a streak key border done in a lighter tone of the same color. These straw rugs are very strong, and a 12 by 14

size costs less than $10. Brown willow chairs and couches are used, but the reading table and plant stands are of wood in mission style. Wooden models are more substantial for such purposes than the willow forms, which are apt to be wobbly. The lamps hung from the center of the rooms on wrought iron chains have willow shades in lattice design. They are lined on the inside with dull finished

Japanese paper in a pomegranate red shade. These shades, which are very effective and admit of the light shining through in a manner satisfactory for reading, may be bought for $2 apiece.

In the dining room inexpensive mission furniture is used, and at the windows of both apartments the casements are hung with madras curtains of cream color sprigged with green. The floor drapery between the rooms is of a soft mahogany brown in monk's cloth. This material is a little more expensive than the denim, which it closely resembles, but the monk's cloth is softer and hangs more gracefully than the stiffer fabric. A stencil of meadow grasses and cattail was applied to the curtain by one of the owners of the bungalow. The wall coverings were the most expensive part of the furnishing. A tannish brown grass cloth goes halfway up the wall space, with a frieze of dull green at the top stencilled with cattails and poppies. A picture molding of bamboo joins the two fabrics.

When the purse is not limited the choice of furnishings for the bungalow to be found in up to date shops is fascinating.

A FINE DRY SHAMPOO.

Some girls who are sensitive to cold dread having their hair shampooed frequently. To keep the scalp clean carefully divide the hair into strands. This loosens all dandruff, which should be taken from the hair by loosening it and holding it at arm's length.

Rubbing the scalp with a sponge dipped in witch hazel is a good substitute for the regular shampoo. There are also certain proprietary preparations for scalp cleaning and dandruff removing which do not necessitate wetting the long hair.

HAIR WORN OFF THE FOREHEAD.

Among the minor essentials of the present coiffure is that an inch of hair at the neck and above the ears must show. The braid or swirl must go above this space. It is not considered correct these days to pin the switch down at the very edge of the line of growth.

A Pretty Custom

HANGING THE MAY BASKET.

AN old and pretty custom that has survived the practicality of the present age is that of hanging baskets of flowers on front door bells the first day of May. Children delight in this practice. They get up with the birds on this May morning and pour the weeds and gardens for blossoms. Small boxes covered with crumpled paper or rain baskets are filled with the flowers, and when nobody is near the door picked out to be bestowed with a basket the small girl or boy stealthily creeps up and fastens her offering to the bell or doorknob. The bell is then rung furiously, and in the twinkling of an eye the last thing seen of the dinner is a pair of heels and a flutter of skirts in the distance.

MANY INTERESTED

In the Building Operations in This City

Building operations and excavations have a peculiar fascination for many persons as is demonstrated by the crowds that stand about where such work is being done.

Daily there is to be found on the bridge in East Merrimack street where huge blocks of granite are being loaded and unloaded by means of a derrick. In Bridge street where the Massachusetts Co. is working on the foundation for the monster storehouse, and in Paige street where men are at work on the foundation for the new theatre, hundreds of men that seem to have no other business on hand than to mentally direct the work, are to be found.

Occasionally there will be seen a man apparently in a hurry for a train, or an electric car, who will stop for a week at the work and become so absorbed that he will linger until he has missed his train or car.

Another curious thing about the watching crowd is that the same men appear day after day and occupy the same positions, apparently having pre-empted the positions best suited to their way of thinking and affording a full view of all that is going on.

Some of these men will tell the story of things that happened in the vicinity years ago. At the bridge in East Merrimack street, for instance, two men were swapping stories about old times. They talked mostly about the old corporation boarding houses and a deal of their talk was very interesting. They told of other buildings that are now being destroyed and of the wonderful strides that the Massachusetts mills were making. These two men were estimating the weight of every stone that was being placed here and there by the derrick and taking all in their conversation was quite interesting.

SIMULTANEOUS EXAMINATIONS

NEW YORK, April 16.—Simultaneous examinations of the branch houses and the home offices of trust companies which have foreign branches will hereafter be conducted by O. H. Cheney, state superintendent of banks, it was announced today. Hitherto only the parent was examined, it being permitted to give an account of the business standing of its branches abroad.

Under the old system the possibility of juggling of assets was present and new method of examination is intended to prevent this and at the same time enable the state banking department to get an exact statement of the condition on a given date of the trust companies engaged in international business. The plan was inaugurated this week when chartered accounts named by Mr. Cheney examined the London branch of a big Wall street trust company simultaneously with the examination of the home office of the company.

FINNEY TESTIFIED

At the Hearing of the Ballinger-Pinchot Case Today

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Edward Finney, assistant to the secretary of the interior, continued his testimony today before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee. He was questioned further about official acts of Mr. Ballinger and insisted that the secretary had acted in good faith in turning over the Cunningham claims to Assistant Secretary Pierce. There was a full attendance of the committee today as an important question was to be decided. Attorney Brandeis requested yesterday that he be allowed to defer cross-examination of Mr. Finney until after he had an opportunity to examine the secretary himself. The committee appeared to be divided on the question, so action on it was postponed until today.

Mr. Finney was cross-examined by Mr. Brandeis, who said he would defer some of his questions until after the committee ruled as to whether he could cross-examine witnesses after Secretary Ballinger had been heard.

Mr. Brandeis asked if there was anything in the record to show that Attorney-General Wickersham had "one scintilla of evidence" before him to justify his statement that Glavis took no action against criminal prosecutions in the Cunningham case. Mr. Finney said papers looking to criminal prosecutions were sent to Glavis at his request but that no action in court had been taken.

"I said nothing about action in court," snapped the attorney.

Brandeis proceeded to show that at the time the attorney-general made his statement regarding Glavis on papers submitted to him there were in the land office various daily reports by Glavis and Special Agent Jones regarding conferences with Dist.-Atty. Todd at Seattle; also letters from Todd and Glavis regarding the conferences.

Mr. Brandeis was still questioning the witness when recess was ordered.

As a result, she claims, through Attorney Axel Josephson, who has sustained permanent injuries.

SEN. SULLIVAN

Is Asked to Show His Hand

NEW YORK, April 16.—Senator Big Tim Sullivan's supposed possession of $20,000 in cash which Tex Rickard put up as a guaranty when bidding for the Jeffries-Johnson fight led to his appearance in supreme court here today. He was subpoenaed by Dr. Coakley who wanted Big Tim to submit to an examination as to whether he had that much money belonging to Rickard. According to the papers in the case, Coakley is anxious to collect a claim of something like $2000 from Rickard and wants to know why it should not be paid out of this money.

Attorneys representing Senator Sullivan moved that the subpoena be vacated. Justice Greenbaum remarked that if Sullivan did not want to be examined he could pay the amount of the claim. This caused Big Tim to smile broadly.

The proceedings were conducted quietly and no definite action by Justice Greenbaum was announced when the parties to the action left the courtroom, after a conference over which the mantle of secrecy was thrown.

VASSAR GIRLS

SAID TO BE DREADFULLY IN DEBT

POUGHKEEPSIE, April 16.—For the first time in the history of Vassar college its students face the necessity of recognizing the value of the mighty dollar. Debts contracted at Vassar Inn, the popular tearoom adjoining the campus, have reached $3000, and until all debts are paid it is announced cash must be forthcoming for every order.

The students met in the apartments of one of the girls yesterday, and Miss Mary S. Wagner, proprietor of Vassar Inn, was sharply criticized.

"The very idea," one student exclaimed, "Miss Wagner expects us to carry money with us all the time. Well, we won't and that ends it."

"The girls spend thousands of dollars for luncheons and tea parties there every week," another girl told a reporter. "Why when Miss Wagner was here they would not have dared ask her to pay cash, although she usually did. I don't believe the rule will last long."

The faculty of Vassar college will take no action, the girls are ruled by a student board.

Founder's day is approaching and on Founder's day men flock to Vassar. The fair collegians are kept busy with luncheons and teas, many of which are given at the Inn. It obliged to pay cash with their orders, they will be somewhat embarrassed.

Miss Wagner last night said that Vassar Inn is no different from any hotel, and should be run as hotels are. She denied that the Inn was about to suspend and she also denied that she is about to be married a rumor which has been current.

ALCOHOLISM

Thirteenth Sudden Death is Reported in Westerly, R. I.

WESTERLY, R. I., April 16.—The thirteenth sudden death in this and surrounding towns within the last two weeks, five of which are known to have been caused by drinking whiskey containing wood alcohol, and wood alcohol poisoning suspected as having been the cause of the remaining cases, occurred shortly before midnight last night when Deputy Sheriff Eugene W. Coon of Westerly died. Dr. R. B. Smith, who was called to attend the suffering man, stated that death was caused by alcoholism and heart failure. As there is no suspicion of wood alcohol poisoning, Dr. Smith says that he will not report the case to the medical examiner. Deputy Coon, who for several years was chief of police of this city, leaves a widow and two children.

Town Solicitor H. B. Agard and Chief of Police Bransfield stated today that they have evidence under oath which will prove where the liquor which evidently caused the death of Daniel L. Sullivan last Wednesday was bought. Although they declined to give out the name of the party who sold the liquor to Sullivan they say that it was not bought at a drug store. At the conclusion of the autopsy on the body of John McAvoy, who died Thursday, Medical Examiner Morgan, who conducted the investigation, stated that death was caused by chronic nephritis as shown by the condition of the kidneys and that there was no evidence of wood alcohol poisoning.

TENEMENT HOUSES

Deplorable Conditions in Certain Sections in Boston

BOSTON, April 16.—Deplorable conditions among the tenement house people of the North and West End sections of the city and suggestions for their moral, social and physical welfare are contained in the report of the housing committee of the Boston-1916 movement, made public today.

It is claimed that submerged conditions and that the congestion is practically a menace to the community.

The committee finds that 84 per cent of four typical blocks in these sections are covered by buildings. Halls and stairs are dark, dirty, inadequately ventilated and less than three feet wide.

There is an average of one water faucet to each family and one water closet to two families of eight persons each.

In many cases less than 350 cubic feet of air is supplied to each person which is below the lowest standard fixed in any city in this country or in Europe.

Not the average rent is $11.50 a month, or nearly a dollar a week to each person.

The committee suggests that there is sufficient law vested in the board of health to better the conditions, provided the board was given the money and the backing of vigorous public opinion.

STRIKE LEADERS RAILROAD BILL

Favor Proposal to End Strike Was Taken Up in the House Today

It is believed the company offers to re-employ all of the company and to arbitrate the causes of the 171 men whose discharge brought on the strike.

The car men's leaders are in favor of the acceptance of the proposition and it is probable the strike will be declared off this afternoon and that the men will be back on the cars early next week.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

PORTLAND, Me., April 16.—The Maine Methodist conference today again placed itself on record against the liquor traffic and divorce evil and urged in favor of the observance of the Christian Sabbath. The importance of officials taking definite action against "white slave" traffic was emphasized. Touching on temperance the report of the committee on moral reform said:

"The efficiency of prohibition has been demonstrated by honest, intelligent enforcement and its apparent failure has been shown to be due to inefficient and dishonest officials. The increasingly large number of divorces in our state are an occasion for shame and alarm," reported the same committee.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL

DEPOSITORS LOSE

Receiver Finds That Coleman's Shortage is $309,000

BOSTON, April 15.—Further revelations of the thefts of George W. Coleman from the National City bank of Cambridge, made known in the first official statement of ex-Governor John L. Bates, the receiver, which was issued last night, show that $309,000 was taken instead of $150,000 claimed by the former bookkeeper, and that not only the stockholders but also the depositors will have to share in the loss.

When the stockholders were assessed $100 a share on April 8, it was believed that this extra $150,000 would be sufficient to pay the depositors dollar for dollar, but the statement indicates that this extra amount will be far from satisfying the legal claims of depositors, who must be content with considerably less than the amounts due them.

Just what percentage will have to be charged off is not possible to announce, but the probabilities are that the loss to every depositor may prove large.

Rumors following the closing of a bank generally place the loss at a greater figure than actually exists. In the case of the National City bank the first estimates, which were believed to be exaggerated, have fallen far short of the actual figures and each succeeding statement has shown a greater and greater loss.

Estimates of loss of $150,000 were at first made, then $180,000, then $180,000, and recently $250,000. Coleman himself in an interview, said that these last figures were too high and that the total amount of his defalcation would not go over $150,000.

Wipes Out Surplus

Ex-Governor Bates' statement shows that the assets of the bank amount to $228,834.13, and that the liabilities are $242,834.13, a difference of $15,000. This wipes out all the surplus of the institution, the profit and loss balance and amount recoverable from sureties and stockholders and still leaves a considerable balance that will not begin to pay in full the depositors.

The costs of the receivership and other expenses have not yet been determined and those who are familiar with the history of the bank say that the statements of the receiver not only dissipate all hope that the bank will pay 100 cents on the dollar, but clearly indicate that the depositors will have to bear a heavy loss.

STUBBORN BLAZE

Started in Putnam's Restaurant Last Night

Fire broke out in the kitchen of F. E. Putnam's restaurant in The Sun building in Merrimack street about nine o'clock last night and the building would undoubtedly have been gutted but for the prompt response of the firemen and their efficient work after arriving.

The fire was caused by an overheated range in the kitchen and was burning briskly when the department arrived on the scene.

Naturally, the alarm from box 13 caused considerable excitement, and a few minutes after it was sounded hundreds of people were on the scene and it was only with great difficulty that a squad of patrolmen under the command of Lieut. Freeman were able to keep the crowd away from the building and give the firemen a chance to work.

The kitchen is in the rear of the building and the fire started about half way up a chimney in the kitchen and broke out in the woodwork in the backshop on the floor above. The fire then ate its way up through the partitions into the cloak room used by employees in The Sun and from there went into the roof, but the firemen stayed the progress of the flames at that point, although the smoke from the partitions had not ceased for hours.

There was little water damage as the firemen fought the flames with the chemical lines and hand extinguishers, without the use of the heavier water hoses.

At ten o'clock this morning smoke was seen pouring through the upper floor of The Sun building and word was sent to the central fire station, but when the firemen arrived on the scene it was found that there was no fire, the smoke having been caused by the cooking of some meat in the kitchen of the restaurant.

The building is insured with T. C. Lee and company and Fred C. Church.

Fire in Nesmith Street

An alarm from box 49 shortly after six o'clock last night summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in the residence of John McMorley at 34 Nesmith street, a coach having caught fire. The damage was confined to the couch. The building is owned by Blanche McGannon and the insurance was carried through the agency of Fred C. Church.

Good time, A. O. H. hall, Mon. eve.

STROPPER GONE

SLICK THIEF WORKED IN TOW. ER'S CORNER PHARMACY

While the clerks in the store were busy with customers, some slick thief walked into the Tower's Corner Drug store last evening and lifted a Runder automatic safety razor stropper from the counter. The stroppers are on top of a glass show case, near the door, and it would not be a very hard task to take one without being detected. For at least one person, however, it was a hard task. Mr. Frank J. Campbell, proprietor of the store, made the discovery about 9 o'clock that somebody had purloined the stropper and immediately notified the police.

ANOTHER HEAVY STORM

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 15.—The heavy storm which yesterday and last night swept Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas, was followed by another one last night. Rain fell in torrents, accompanied in many places by hail, and the property damage will be heavy. The wind at times was like a tornado. Reports from Jacksonville, Miss., indicate that many small houses were leveled and one negro was killed. This is the only fatality reported. Telephone and telegraph wires in and around Memphis were laid flat. All railroad traffic was delayed last night, on account of the washouts.

JOHN E. REDMOND

Coming to Attend the Irish League Convention Here

NEW YORK, April 15.—John E. Redmond, M. P., chairman of the Irish party, today cabled to John O'Callaghan, national secretary of the United Irish League of America, that he, T. P. O'Connor, M. P., and Joseph Devlin, M. P., will attend the Irish League convention of the United Irish League of America when it is held, probably at the end of September. Owing to the complicated state of British and Irish national politics no date has yet been set nor has a place been assigned for the holding of the convention. The United Irish league has always deferred fixing the date or place for the holding of the convention until a comparatively short time before it is held as the organization here has been desirous of meeting the desires and wishes of the Irish parliamentary party in a manner that may be most advisable at each particular time.

There are several places prominently mentioned as possible centers for the holding of the convention. Among them are Buffalo, New York, Chicago, Baltimore and Washington. The last convention of the organization was held in September, 1908, in Boston.

HOLY ROLLERS

Did Not Conduct Any Baptisms Today

DUNSBURY, April 15.—Contrary to expectations and to the evident disappointment of the members of the Apostolic Faith of the Latter Rain or True Immersionists as well as the crowds of curious onlookers, there were no baptisms today in connection with the quarterly meeting of the sect at the little Ashford chapel. It had been expected that Saturday and Sunday would be given over to a perfect carnival of baptism but in order to baptize there must be converts and the converts were lacking.

Today's meetings were not unusual. They were the customary services which were marked by song, prayer and exhortation but the frenzied scenes which made last fall's meetings notable were lacking today. The members of the sect have made faithful and earnest endeavors to convert to their belief all visitors at the chapel but these efforts have been uniformly unsuccessful.

The collections which were a feature last fall on account of the great amount of money heaped into the plates have not been worthy of comment at the present series of meetings. It is still hoped by the apostolic sect that the Latter Rain of the Spirit may pour down upon the meetings before they come to a close tomorrow and that there will be converts to be baptized. Under the practice of the apostolic sect the converts are immersed three times and from this custom the name True Immersionists has originated.

MADE HIS ESCAPE COLONEL ROOSEVELT, PRESIDENT FALLIERES AND SOME SCENES IN PARIS

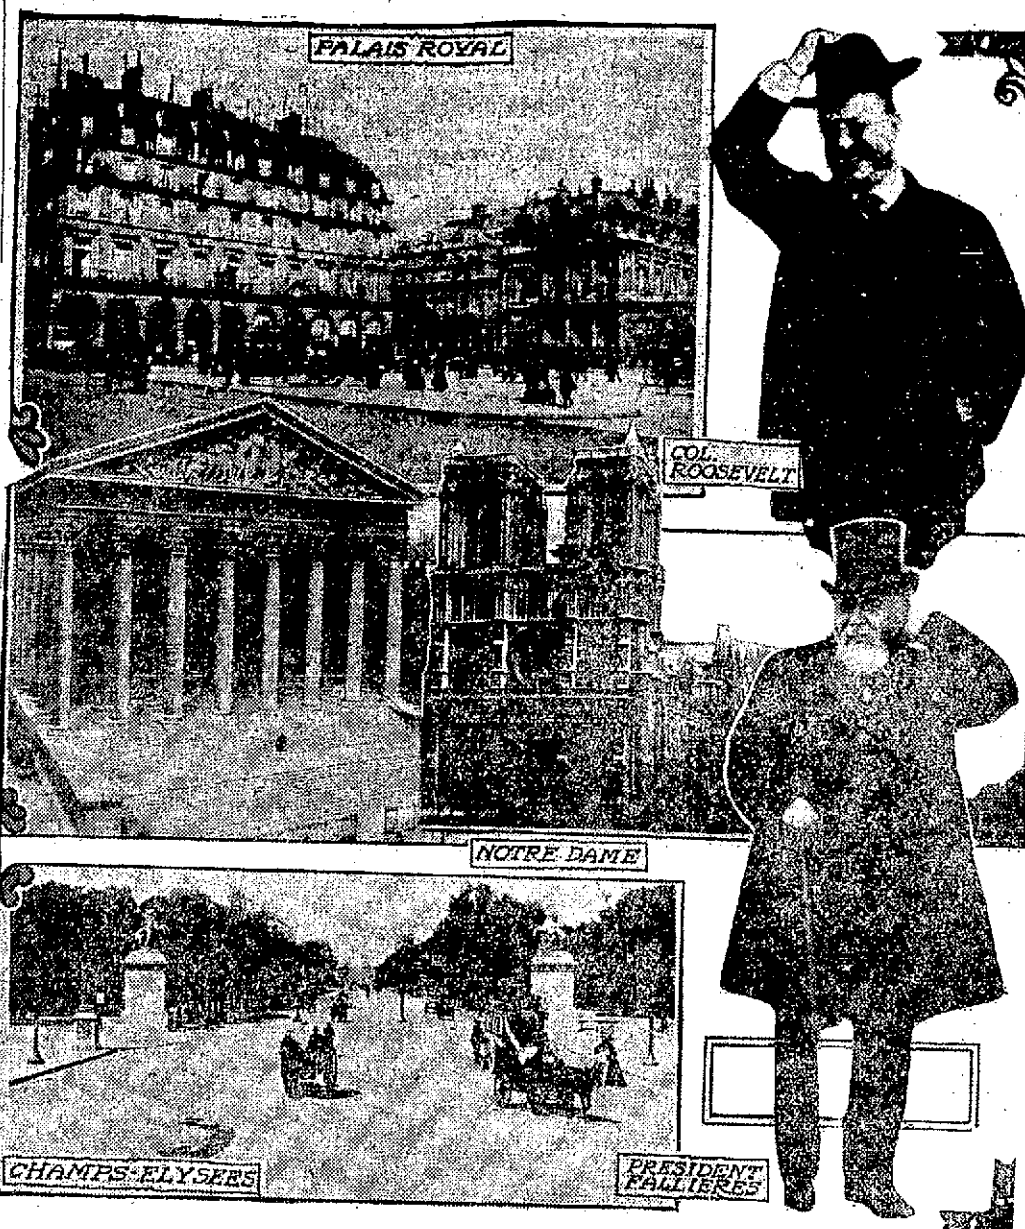

Man Was Charged With Burglary

BELMONT, April 16.—Police officials in the local station were very much surprised today to learn that the man arrested on the charge of burglary had escaped from his cell in some manner during the night. When arrested yesterday the man refused to divulge the least information about himself, not even telling his name. The authorities believed that he was a well known crook and placed him in the cell in the rear of the station. This morning the cell was found empty and the padlock found open lying on the floor.

AWARD OF $11,000 GIRL RESCUED

Woman Injured in Railroad Accident

NEWPORT, Vt., April 16.—Yesterday marked the end of one of the most interesting cases in Orleans county court for many years when the jury in the case of Arabelle Parker vs. the Boston & Maine railroad returned a verdict for the plaintiff of $11,000 and costs.

She was injured in a wreck near Inwood June 26, 1909, by having a suit case strike her elbow, breaking a corner of the bone in the upper part of the arm at the joint. The bone knitting fastened the ulna nerve in such a way as to render her arm useless.

Dress Caught While She Fought Fire

BARRINGTON, N. H., April 16.—A forest fire, doing damage of about $5000, was in progress at Green hill in this town from 11 a. m. until dark yesterday, burning over about 75 acres, 20 of which contained heavy growth and the remainder young growth. The burned area also included a number of acres of sprout land.

The fire started near the Worcester, Nashua and Portland division of the B. & M. R. R., probably from sparks from a locomotive and ran a mile through the grass to Green hill. A hundred men and women fought the flames vigorously and it was with difficulty that farm houses in the vicinity were saved.

Miss Alva Thompson, 15 years old, daughter of F. H. Thompson, and one of the fire fighters, had a narrow escape from severe, if not fatal injuries, as her skirt caught fire and was a mass of flames when friends rushed to her assistance before she received any serious injury.

The land over which the fire ran, belonged to Judson Locke, who owned the growth burned, Daniel Wentworth and John Kellner.
Another fire raged all the afternoon amongst underbrush and grass in the vicinity of East Barrington depot, and that was extinguished with but little damage, railroad section men furnishing much aid. At Lee, not far from the Barrington line, a big forest fire, which started yesterday is in progress and outside help has been summoned. The George W. Pinkham farm buildings, unoccupied and owned by Woodbury Sherburne of Lee, who bought the farm for its growth, were totally destroyed and the fire is now in the growth. The loss on buildings will be $2500.

Mlle. Cavallieri Accepts Chanler's Offer of Marriage

NEW YORK, April 16.—Robert Winthrop Chanler, grandson of the late John Jacob Astor, ex-sheriff of Dutchess county, New York, brother of former Lieut.-Gov. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler and John Armstrong Chanler of Virginia, the last named being the former husband of the Princess Annette Rives Troubetzkoy, was a very happy man last night, for true to her promise, Mlle. Lina Cavallieri, Manhattan Opera House soprano, as famous for her good looks as for her singing, cabled from Paris yesterday that she was willing to become the bride of Mr. Chanler when she returns to New York in the autumn.

Cavallieri sailed from New York just 16 days ago, and as she boarded the Lusitania she announced that yesterday would tell the story of whether or not she was to become the wife of the artist-politician of Dutchess county. As the Lusitania swung into the Hudson and headed for Sandy Hook on that last day of March "Bob" Chanler stood on the pier.

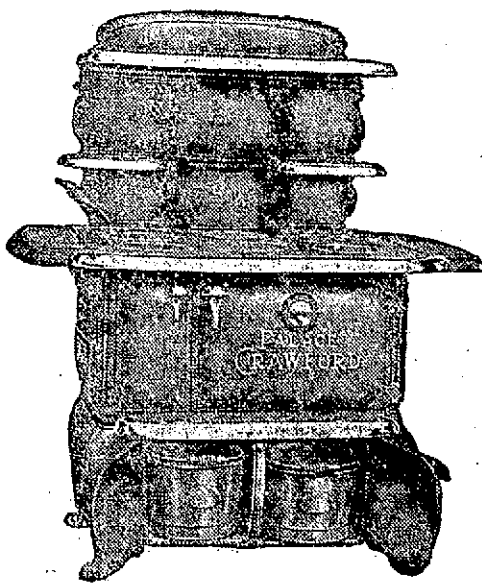

"I hope that word the cable brings on the 15th will be 'yes,'" he murmured to a friend as the Lusitania disappeared in the lower bay.
It was late yesterday afternoon when a messenger boy ran up the steps leading to Mr. Chanler's studio in the Windsor Arcade. The lad had a cablegram envelope and it was addressed to Mr. Chanler.

Cavallieri's Message
This is the message that Cavallieri sent to Mr. Chanler, according to a friend last night who acted as the intermediary between Mr. Chanler and the reporters:
"Paris, April 15.
"I accept your proposition on the condition that it will happen when I return to New York."
"Cavallieri."
To this cablegram Mr. Chanler promptly sent the following reply:
"New York, April 15.
"Mlle. Lina Cavallieri, Paris:
"All right. 'Tis a long wait, but a wise one."
"W. R. C."

There are 3 Features in Crawford Ranges

which make them superior to any others

1. The Single Damper
2. The Oven heated by cup-joint flues
3. The Two Hods in the base

Either of these features is worth the price of the range. The Single Damper is the greatest help in cooking ever invented. One motion—push the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check"—the range does the rest.

The Oven is heated by the cup-joint flues all over alike; no "cold corners," no "scorching spots". Quickest and surest baker.

The Two Hods in the base (patented) is a wonderful trouble-saving feature. The ashes fall through a chute into a Hod which is easy to empty. The Coal Hod is beside it.

Gas Ovens and Broilers for end or above range if desired.

Ask the Crawford agent to show you and write us for circular.

SCANDALOUS CLEMENCY.

One of the slayers of ex-United States Senator Carmack of Tennessee was convicted in court after a very careful trial and was immediately pardoned by the governor. It seems that in that case the exercise of executive clemency was made with undue haste and in a manner that indicated a degree of contempt for the decision of the court. The governor in issuing a pardon so promptly did not seem to be swayed by a spirit of justice.

Col. Cooper was sentenced to twenty years in prison, and although the supreme court found no flaw in the trial, Governor Patterson said the trial was unfair. Thus he has set his private opinion above the decision of the courts after a trial pronounced to be fair and in which nobody doubted the guilt of the prisoner. His action is an indirect endorsement of deliberate murder as well as a reflection upon the courts of the state.

THE OBSERVANCE OF ARBOR DAY.

Governor Draper has issued his annual Arbor Day proclamation, appealing to the people in behalf of the trees. It is important that the people should heed the governor's appeal and observe Arbor Day which is set down for April 30th, by planting young trees or doing something to help the growth of the old trees.

It is a fact that many of the shade trees of the city, in spite of the efforts of the park commission, are mutilated in one way or another, so that many of them are likely to die. Some are injured by horses, others by electric wires and a great many by the cutting of the roots when streets and sidewalks are laid out or constructed. No tree can have a healthy growth unless the roots have room to spread out and find the moisture and nourishment which the tree requires. Let everybody comply with the governor's request and do something definite and practical for the trees on Arbor Day.

While the apple crop has been declining in New England because many of the trees are dying, it would be a good idea if those who have the space would plant apple trees or pear trees so as to increase the supply to combat the decline in this desirable crop that has been noticeable for some years past. The apple orchards of New England require renewal; the trees will not live forever, and new trees should be planted. New orchards should be laid out so that as the old die their place may be supplied by trees more productive and bearing a better quality of fruit. There are also good opportunities to raise pears in this and neighboring states, and there is a great deal of land waste that might be utilized for this purpose at a very light expense.

REDMOND'S PARLIAMENTARY COUP.

The British Premier, Mr. Asquith, has scored a signal triumph in the adoption of his "veto resolutions," providing a means of overcoming the domination of the upper house. His victory was accomplished, however, by following the course laid down by Hon. John E. Redmond, the Irish leader, who told the government plainly that he would defeat the budget unless the premier dealt with the veto power of the lords first. The premier did so, and now he has set April 27 for putting the budget through the last stage of enactment. The measure will then go to the lords, and as it has behind it the mandate of the people the lords will not dare to oppose it. Moreover, it is a financial measure and the lords, according to their traditional custom, have no right to interfere with a money bill. They did, however, interfere with this bill, and this is why it was the chief issue in the recent general election. They will not dare veto or amend it now. Hence the budget becomes law and thus one of the most revolutionary measures of taxation ever enacted in England takes effect. That will give the liberal party the prestige of having carried one of its pet reforms, one for which the conservatives could offer but the alternative of a protective tariff.

There were exciting scenes in the house of commons when the vote was taken upon the veto resolution. Mr. Balfour as leader of the opposition hurled his scornful epithets at Premier Asquith charging that he had sold out to Mr. Redmond, but there was no "sell out" in the case.

Mr. Redmond told the whole country what he would do if the veto resolutions were not put through before the budget.

Premier Asquith had his choice between a dissolution without having accomplished anything and the acceptance of Redmond's terms which meant the passage of the veto resolutions and also the passage of the budget.

The king will now be asked to create as many liberal peers as will carry the measure over all opposition in the upper house. If he does this then the power of the lords to defeat popular legislation is gone forever. The conservatives say it is a wiping out of the British constitution, an expression which to Americans may sound strange as there is no such thing as a written constitution in Britain.

The very fact that the Irish party in parliament can thus dominate British legislation is one reason why both British parties should be glad to be rid of the Irish party, glad to pacify Ireland by granting home rule.

It was with ill grace that the conservatives twitted the liberals on having traded with the Irish leader, for were they in power they would be just as ready to offer concessions in lieu of Redmond's support with his band of eighty-two members.

The Tories have often formed a combination with the Irish party in the past, and in the present case it was the Irish party and the laborites who stood by the liberals in one of the most important reforms proposed since the passage of the anti-Corn laws in 1855.

Through all this political excitement in England John Redmond stands preeminent as the ablest and most astute leader in parliament. The London papers are of the opinion that he was in either of the great British parties he would still be a leader in oratory, statesmanship and the parliamentary tact that enables him to take advantage of every opportunity to advance his cause.

Premier Asquith has promised home rule to Ireland after the veto power of the lords shall have been overcome, as it would be of little use to send a home rule measure to a house that, with few exceptions, is bitterly opposed to it.

The action inaugurated Thursday night means the ultimate overthrow of the house of lords, as that institution has existed in the past.

The upper chamber will be shorn of the veto power on popular legislation, and it will be deprived also of the hereditary feature under an arrangement that will at least have reasonable deference for the qualifications of the members, something that was never considered under the system now in force.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Samuel A. Cook, ex-congressman from the sixth Wisconsin district, has announced himself a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator La Follette.

Miss Jane B. Haines has opened a school of agriculture for women at Amherst, Pa. The school is modeled after the famous school at Swanssea, England.

The lists are now practically filled for the coming democratic state primary in Texas. There are five candidates for governor, four candidates for railroad commissioner, four candidates for controller and three candidates for judge of criminal appeals. The candidates for governor are C. Cone Johnson, of Tyler, R. V. Davidson, of Galveston, William Pollock, of Cleburne, F. M. Cunniff, of McKinney and D. B. Colquitt, of Terrell.

Professor Katherine Lee Bates of Wellesley college has recently published the story of Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims, retold for children. Another work of Professor Bates' supervision, the editing of a translation of Gustavo Adolfo Becquer's "Romantic Legends of Spain," a translation by Mrs. Cornelia Frances Bates, affords a rare instance of collaboration of mother and daughter as college women. Prefacing the legends, Professor Bates writes: "A word regarding the circumstances under which this translation was made will be mentioned by all children of dear mothers. Mrs. Cornelia Frances Bates (1856-1908), a graduate of Mount Holyoke in the days of Mary Lyon, and the widow of a Congregational minister, took up the study of Spanish at the age of 71. Until her death, 'labor and sorrow,' her Spanish readings and translations were a keen intellectual delight. Her husband was her spirit that, of the modern, Spanish words with which she became acquainted, nothing fascinated her so much as Becquer's strange, romantic fables. Seeing the pleasure she took in these legends, and learning that no complete English translation existed, I suggested that we unite in a Becquer Book. Her full share of the work was promptly done; mine was delayed; and the volume—which we had meant to inscribe to my sister—becomes her own memorial.

Professor William H. Schofield of the English department of Harvard has completed his plans for an extensive trip abroad this summer. On the completion of the college term he and his family will start for England, thence embark upon a three months' trip through Iceland. Professor Schofield and his party will carry all the paraphernalia for eating and sleeping, as their itinerary includes places seldom visited by the traveler, and where there will be no facilities for sleeping in a house. On the completion of their Icelandic trip they will proceed to Paris, where they will remain most of next winter, as that will be Professor Schofield's sabbatical year. Two years ago Professor Schofield was visiting professor to Germany.

The son of the late Senator A. P. Guzman of Maryland had for some years been prominent in Maryland politics as a democratic leader, and many have expected him to seek a career no less national in scope and influence than his father's. At present, he is presiding officer of the upper branch of the Maryland legislature. Very surprising to his party associates in the state was his announcement from the chair, that the legislature's ad-jourment would mark the end of his political career.

Yelislav Simonovitch, a clerk in Belgrade, Serbia, on the strength of an increase in salary recently telegraphed to a young woman of his fortune. The asked her to share his fortune. The regulation tax allowed ten words for the minimum fee, and her answer ran: "Yes, gladly, willingly, joyfully, delightedly, gratefully, lovingly, yes, yes, yes."

Many a fashion among French dandies was set by the late Duc de Sagan, father of Anna Gould's present husband. Among other fashions was that of wearing a single eyeglass with a very wide black ribbon—a practice followed for many years. In one respect, however, his most faithful admirers refused to follow the duke. This was when he took to carrying an umbrella on horseback. He first indulged in this eccentricity at a race meeting. When a shower came he was seen to be holding an umbrella over himself and his horse the sensation was immense. No one ventured to imitate him, however, and ultimately he abandoned the practice.

DARTMOUTH GLEE

Entertained at Colonial Hall Last Evening

The combined musical clubs of Dartmouth college, including A. C. Keough, a clever reader and humorist, entertained a large and representative audience in Colonial hall last evening.

An excellent program was given, including several comic songs over dear to the heart of old Dartmouth men and the audience several times found itself drawn into the choruses.

The leader of the glee club is Wayne D. Stewart, first tenor, and incidentally a halfback, on the varsity football eleven. The leader of the mandolin club is Hazen W. Jones. Both of them have succeeded in convincing Lowell that their clubs are the best that Dartmouth ever sent here. Those who want with clubs were:

Dancing followed the concert, which was given under the auspices of local high school boys.

MONSTER SHARK

Put Up Battle With Doryman

BOSTON, April 16.—A 400-pound shark was captured and killed by the little schooner Ignatius Enos, 2 miles off Marblehead yesterday and the creature gave Silva the fight of his life before he was able to turn it over to the men on the vessel who responded to his signals for assistance. The Enos was fishing for cod, within full view of the residences on the shore, when Silva, who was hauling in a trail, was alarmed at an unusual weight that resisted his efforts. Gradually he got the gear to the surface and discovered a big shark, tail upmost, fast to the gaffing.

The shark had been hooked near the tail, and it was impossible to reach its head, fully 12 feet beneath the dory, to club the monster or administer a thrust with the butcher knife. The shark thrashed about and bit the dory with tremendous blows till Silva feared that it might burst through the dory's planks, so he hoisted an oar as a signal for Capt. Enos to hurry the schooner to his aid.

The Enos shot alongside and caught the line thrown by Silva. A tackle was made fast to the tail of the shark and all hands hoisted the monster to the vessel's deck. Another battle ensued, for the shark fought savagely to regain its liberty, and several dories were in danger of being ruined before the creature was finally secured. A block of wood was jammed into its mouth as a precautionary measure, for the sharp teeth would have gulped off a man's legs in a twinkling.

DRACUT NEWS

CONFLICT OVER EXPENDITURE OF MONEY FOR ROADS

If the town of Dracut attempts to start to macadamize portions of Mammoth road and Lakewood avenue, for which $4000 was voted at the recent town meeting, it is said that persons who are opposed to the expenditure of the money will ask for an injunction to prevent the work.

It is said that the opposition was caused by the failure of the county to expend an amount equal to that appropriated by the town.

F. H. HILL

ELECTED SUPT. OF SCHOOLS FOR WESTFORD

Are You BUILDING Are You THINKING

Most everyone has built, is building or thilking of building sometime. He who has built a house has learned a whole lot by the process—learned among other things that he knew many things before building that ain't so. To such always comes the wish that he might build just one more house. Experience teaches among other things:

- 1—Too little care and attention given to locating GAS PIPING.
- 2—Too little appreciation of the many uses for GAS.
- 3—Too little thought as to arrangement for use of GAS.

WHY NOT

- PLAN for the many gas conveniences.
- PLAN for steam radiator in kitchen so that one may cook with gas the year round.
- PLAN so that a portable gas radiator may be used in any room in the house during the cold, damp summer days.
- PLAN for quick, convenient use in kitchen on laundry work.
- PLAN for bath room or sick room emergencies.
- PLAN and pipe so as to dispense with rubber tubing.

All these details need but a little careful thought and call for very little extra expense. We shall be very glad to assist by advising. Information will be cheerfully given concerning the latest appliances for lighting, heating and cooking, or for power.

LIVELY HEARING

Strong Appeal For Extension of Dummer Street

Strong Arguments in its Favor and Little in Shape of Remonstrance — Rev. Mr. Willmott, Pastor of First Congregational Church, Favored the Extension

The public hearing room at city hall was the scene, last night, of a hearing on a petition that is almost old enough to vote. The petition was for the extension of Dummer street from Market street to Merrimack street.

This year's petition, however, bears a great many more signatures than the petitions that have gone before. The hearing was before the committee on streets and it was whispered that the committee is in favor of the petition. O'Sullivan, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, the petition was headed by James Percy Parker and Peter H. Savage.

The First Speaker
James O'Sullivan was the first petitioner heard. He said it might seem strange that he had appeared in advocacy of the proposition for the fourth time as he had no money interests at stake. "But I believe," he said, "that public necessity and convenience demand it."

"This matter was first brought to the attention of the city government nineteen years ago this month. I think it got to the city fathers four times and they voted it down. If you would but watch the great mass of people that come from the Merrimack and other mills and who are obliged to go up Merrimack street and Maiden lane, you might stop to think that they are worthy of some little consideration. They go through Maiden lane because of necessity."

"And again, the proposed extension opens up a natural highway from Ayer Junction to the city hall and railroad possibilities are good in the event of this extension. It would mean a continuous line down to Merrimack street."

"Another consideration that must appeal to you in this matter is the fact that a body of our fellow citizens worships at the First Congregational church across the way. They have been in the church during their hours of worship because of the crowds that gather about the cheap places of amusement in the vicinity. Twenty-five members of that church signed this petition years ago and the extension is necessary in order to relieve conditions at that church. It would do away with the old shacks in that vicinity and would add to the beauty of the city. The names on the petition tell you who will pay the bills. As a matter of civic pride we ought to have this extension."

Celebrated His Golden Wedding

Although Mr. Foster, a well-known undertaker of Jersey City Heights, N. J., has been exposed to every kind of contagious disease, he has always enjoyed the best of health. He is now 74 years of age. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is His Only Medicine, and it keeps His System in such perfect condition that it wards off the attacks of all the germs with which His Business Brings Him in Contact.

He recently wrote: "I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for a great many years and have found it to be the best tonic stimulant for old people. I am 74 years old, have been in the undertaking business 55 years and have exposed myself to every known contagious disease, but I have never taken anything to prevent contagion except Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in small doses. I am a tonic. I have found that your whiskey keeps me in the best of health. On January 30, 1910, my wife and I celebrated our Golden Anniversary. I sincerely hope my letter will convince others that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a great blessing and help to those along in years."—David Foster, 550 Palisade Ave., Jersey City Heights, N. J.

well to talk about "the city beautiful" but he noticed that Lowell's magnificent buildings had not attracted any industries here of late. Most of them were here before we had such magnificent buildings. "It reminds me of the old Scotch saying: 'Beauty doesn't boil the pot,'" said Mr. Charlton.

After the hearing had been dissolved the committee held a meeting and voted to take a view of the proposed extension next Thursday.

GREAT LOCKOUT

In Building Trades in Germany

BERLIN, April 16.—A lockout in the building trades of Germany began at 8 o'clock last evening. Between 150,000 and 200,000 workers already are known to be affected, but full reports have not yet arrived at headquarters.

Although the employers of Berlin, Hamburg and Bremen have not yet participated in the movement and negotiations for a peaceful settlement are continuing in Munich, the lockout is a most widespread one. Bitter feeling divides the employers and employees. Most of the contractors are determined to work for the defeat of the trades unions, but it is estimated that 10 per cent of the employers have sympathized with the men's demands. The building material manufacturers have joined forces with the employers in several cities in resolving not to deliver materials to those employers not obeying the lockout mandate.

Up to the present no disorders have been reported. The lockout was caused by the action of delegates representing Socialist Federation of Trades unions, carpenters, masons and laborers, who recently rejected by a unanimous vote a proposed wage tariff of the master builders union.

ST. PATRICK'S HOLY NAME

The regular quarterly communion Sunday for the Holy Name society of St. Patrick's church will be next Sunday, April 17. The members will attend the 7 o'clock mass in a body, meeting in the church chapel at 6.45 a. m. from where they will proceed to the upper church where seats will be reserved for the society.

It is the earnest wish of the spiritual director, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, that every member will be present, thereby complying with the rule of the society and also performing his Easter duty. All indications point to a very large attendance.

At the monthly business meeting to be held on April 25 a complete report of the 33d anniversary committee will be submitted. The various sub-committees are working earnestly to surpass last year's success and are making gratifying progress. The members of the literary committee are preparing a fine program and promise something new to interest the members. Other business of importance will come before the meeting.

NO LOSS OF LIFE

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, April 16.—The earthquakes which have been felt for the last 48 hours are now decreasing in number and violence. A majority of the people continue badly frightened and are living in the open, refusing to re-enter their homes. The government has adopted measures to assist sufferers throughout the country.

There has been no loss of life as a result of earthquakes.

THE FRIAR LAND

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Representative Martin (Democrat) of Colorado, who for weeks has been trying in the house to show that the friar lands in the Philippines are being seized by the "sugar trust" for the acquisition of Attorney General Wickham and the war department, gave to the press last night an interview in which he reviews his efforts, assails the government officials alleged to be involved, and urges that information which would prove his contentions is being withheld by the war department, and demands a full congressional inquiry into the matter.

Mr. Martin characterizes the action of the republican majority of the house yesterday in defeating his resolution, calling upon the war department for information regarding the sale of the friar lands, as a "blanketing move."

CONGRESSMAN FOSS

Urges the "Insurgents" to Become Democrats

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 10.—Urging his "insurgent republican friends" to get down from the fence and join the ranks of democracy, Representative Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts, recently elected to congress from a formerly rock-ribbed republican district assailed "insurgency" and the protective tariff policy of the ruling party.

He declared that he now "enjoyed in his various enterprises from 45 to 100 protection. 'It is too much,' he added. 'I don't need that protection and I don't want to have it. All that I have above a certain point represents tariff graft. I am willing that the people of this country should be cut right in half, and then I would have all I am entitled to or need.'

In regard to insurgency, he said: "My insurgent republican friends, if you want to accomplish the results you desire, you have got to stop aside and join the opposition party and force legislation along lines that will bring relief. You have been 'insurgents' long enough and what practical results have you secured?"

Read Out of Party
"Sen. Lodge read me out of the republican party six years ago, but I clung to it for I loved it, until my self-interest and my judgment forced me into the party of the opposition. I went out of the party last fall, and in 30 days' campaign on these same issues cut down a majority of 96,000 to one of less than 8000. Senator Lodge said that I couldn't make the tariff an issue last fall, but before the campaign ended he was defending and praising the Aldrich act whenever and wherever he spoke. It was the dominant issue. It was along the same lines when the opportunity came this spring that I fought the campaign in the fourth district and the district which defeated me last fall for lieutenant governor, by 5000 votes has just sent me to congress by a majority of 5600 votes."

"The insurgent republicans hope as I hoped for eight long years to bring about reform within their own party. It's a mistake. It can't be done. To my insurgent republican friends I say 'don't be a near-demon, be a real one. Come over with me where you belong and where you can do real service.'"

Party names mean little today he declared to the average man who thinks himself.

"It was not a party victory in the fourteenth district. It was a defeat by men of all shades of political belief against an economic policy which has made and is still making it more difficult for the average man to stretch his income to meet his absolutely necessary living expenses."

"Life-long republicans sat on the platform side by side with the democrats when I discussed the tariff issue and the applause was as hearty from the one as from the other."

Mr. Foss started off humorously by saying:

"I recently had an election in Massachusetts." He spoke first of his campaign and of the issues on which he won it.

Campaign of Publicity
His campaign, he declared, had been one of publicity. The full strength of the republican machine in the state, he said, was exerted in behalf of his opponent.

"The entire campaign was fought on tariff lines," he said. "Our platform was put into the hands of every voter I discussed the tariff in almost every

RICHARD CROKER

SAW THE BOUT BETWEEN PICTO AND NELSON

NEW YORK, April 16.—There were more eyes on the boxes than on the ring last night while Frank Picto was defeating Dick Nelson, in a 10-round bout at the National Sporting club, for in one of them, with Richard Croker was a man who bore such an extraordinary likeness to Lord, Kitchen-er of Kharitum that his doubts of identity were relieved with the frankest incredulity.

"It's not Lord Kitchen, I assure you," said the stranger; "my name is Charles Cammen."

In an adjoining box were Harry Payne Whitney and a majority of the visiting British polo team.

Picto had a long lead over Nelson in every round but one, and was easily entitled to a decision.

NEW SWIMMING RECORDS

NEW YORK, April 16.—Three new swimming records were hung up last night at the indoor matches of the New York Athletic club. In the 100 metre race, C. A. Daniels of the New York A. C. set a mark at 1:02 1-5, which is 2.5 of a second better than the previous record held by Goltan Halmay of Austria.

Two new records were established in the 300 yards relay race by a combination team of six men each. A new record of 2:42 1-5 for the full distance was made, against the previous record of 2:48 1-5. The 200 yard mark was reached in 1:45 flat, which is 2 1-5 seconds better than the former record.

EX-GOV. GUILD

REPLIES TO THE COMMENT OF SENATOR LODGE

BOSTON, April 16.—Former Governor Curtis Guild, Jr. in a statement issued last night replies to Sen. Lodge's comment on the New Haven merger issue. The former governor states that he did not appoint a commission expressly to investigate the merger and no commission was authorized with that specific object in view. Later the committee appointed to investigate the committee and industry took up the merger project. Of the report of this committee Mr. Guild says:

"Far from any hearty and unconditional approval of the merger, three of the six who considered it opposed any merger whatever, and the three who favored the merger could do so under strict condition of supervision. I made no attempt whatever to influence the report of that commission or of any commission."

CHEAP AND INFORMAL ENTERTAINING

AFTERNOON tea is certainly one of the most, simplest and least expensive ways of entertaining friends informally, and most women enjoy the congeniality of a few kindred souls far more than large formal affairs. During the late spring and early summer months tea is served on the porch or under the trees in the garden. If the hostess is lucky enough to possess such a charming environment in ideal settings for the daintily equipped tea table, a silver service is always lovely for such a table, but delicate china seems more appropriate to the informality of such an occasion.

Among the illustrations the afternoon tea hostess will find in the garden hat centerpiece a charming floral decoration, which would be especially appropriate for porch parties. The straw hat is caught up into a jaunty basket shape and tied about with gauze ribbon the shade of the color scheme. Poppies and grasses fill the hat seen in the picture. Tea, chocolate or some kind of fruit punch is usually served at these o'clocks and often all three beverages when the affair is large and rather formal. But there are some stanch souls who prefer their cup of coffee and drink tea only under protest. It would save the hostess some embarrassment if she could know beforehand the varying tastes of her guests; then she could gather together the tea devotees and coffee fiends on separate days.

A kaffee klatch for the last named guests would be just the thing, and the tray illustrated, attractively set for the German afternoon function, may give the hostess an idea of the latest equipment in this line. The coffee set is of colonial design carried out in silver, and the cups and plates are of finest Dresden china. The high vase at one side of the tray is filled with roses and sweet peas.

When a small 5 o'clock tea party is being entertained it is easier to have the tea made in the kitchen and brought in with the tea things on a tray. Tea with sandwiches or little cakes and nuts and candies are sufficient refreshments. There are many varieties of sandwiches, but the secret of a delicious ham sandwich served recently at an afternoon tea was in the cooking of the ham and in the abundance of the mayonnaise used in mixing. The ham had been boiled until it was brown and then ground very fine and mixed plentifully with mayonnaise. The meat may be cooked in the oven, a thin slice being allowed to bake until it is well browned, or the ham may be fried. There is more definite flavor about ham cooked in any of these ways than there is if it is boiled. Sandwiches spread with quince jelly

FOR THE BLOUSE MAKER.

THE maker of the summer blouse will welcome the last new touches on these useful garments. There is every season some device for the decoration of each separate garment for women. This year coronation braid is applied upon a strip of clumsy lace forming the front of a finely tucked linen blouse. Begin with two lengths of braid, sew them fast at the center of the lace strip under the collar band, crisscross them down the front in a diamond pattern and repeat the decoration on the collar and cuffs of lace. Black, white and mulberry colored mercerized cotton is used in one conventional design on the front box plait of a fancy shirt waist.

In the shops a white cotton batiste blouse opened at the back and trimmed in front with one strip of three inch wide hand crocheted lace which is repeated on collar and cuffs and as a stock collar is marked $5. Count the cost of this waist if made at home.

Crocheted thread lace is easy to make when regarded as pickup work, and your making it will reduce the cost of the blouse to the value of two yards of cotton batiste and one spool of thread, with nothing for the making if you are clever with your needle.

Blue cotton cross stitching on a white linen shirt waist or fancy blouse is good style that will not be overpopular because it requires little planning of the design to fit it upon each section of the blouse.

A WATCH FOR THE CUFF.

With many of the mannish jackets the stiff linen cuffs are being affected. The latest novelty is a cuff watch, to be inserted as a button in the left cuff, just as a stud would be. It is inconspicuous and very convenient, for the maker of the watch guarantees that the size of the timepiece in no way interferes with its reliability as a timekeeper.

To the women who refuse to wear their watches pinned in (tempting to the thief) array at the front of the bodice and to the ones who cannot with convenience push one below the belt this new idea comes as a suggestion. Whether it will be adopted is another question. For a motorist of either sex this cuff watch ought to prove a happy thought.

WHEN WASHING UP.

All cups and pitchers should be occasionally scrubbed around the handles with a well soaped, stiff brush.

If this is not done they are apt to get a grimy appearance that is anything but appetizing.

Never use soap when washing china with gilt on it. If you do, do not be surprised if the gilt gradually disappears.

Soapy water will clean it quite as well without doing any harm.

TO CURE A COLD.

To a trained nurse is due this somewhat unusual remedy for a cold which if taken in time is infallible:

To a glass of milk add a teaspoonful of powdered ginger. Sip slowly. If a sense of chilliness is felt the milk can be made hot, but not boiling.

This simple remedy has been known to break an apparently bad cold overnight, but the milk should be taken when the first creepy sensations are felt.

and sprinkled with minced nuts are very appetizing, and a filling of fig paste sprinkled with ground peanuts is also good. The figs are boiled until they can be mashed into a paste and are then seasoned lightly with lemon juice. A new wrinkle is to serve little French rolls stuffed with shredded chicken dressed lightly with mayonnaise. As the sandwiches are usually made early on the day of the tea, a fine way to keep them moist is to lay them in a covered tin box on the bottom of which have been placed some lettuce leaves. Wring out of cold water a piece of table linen almost dry and line the box. On the bottom place a few of the bread crusts to absorb any moisture which may cling to the linen. Cover the top of the box in the same way and put the lid on tight. Cared for in this way, the sandwiches may be kept fresh several hours.

When fruit punch is desired fill punch glasses half full of diced pineapple and oranges and top the mixture with mint ice. Lemon or orange ice may be used instead of the mint.

The hostess of today in her search for novelties often achieves in her experimentation some delicious new combinations of food as well as improvements on the old recipes. One idea that results in a novel mingling of flavor is the mixing of two kinds of stock for bouillon served at card parties and similar occasions. To be handed with the soup to supplant the usual salted crackers are buttered slices from the sandwich loaf neatly trimmed and wound around crisp stalks of celery dipped in mayonnaise.

For a spring luncheon the individual service shown in one of the illustrations is charming. The menu is written on heavy cream paper in envelope form, the flap decorated with hand painted spring blossoms. The miniature favor basket is of green gullin straw filled with real flowers, while a butterfly hovers over them in realistic fashion. The ices served could be made in the form of butterflies and colored faintly.

If there is one feature more than another that the smart entertainer expects her ingenuity upon it is the question of frozen delicacies. The day is past when a neapolitan, vanilla or chocolate block or mold is considered good form.

There is a fashion item connected with smart afternoon tea etiquette which is very amusing. I refer to the new "tea and toast rolls" that have meshes so conveniently flexible that merrily may slip her ten through the coarse silk openings. It is no uncommon sight to see women drinking afternoon tea and nibbling toast through the new veils without discomfit.

DAFNE DEAN.

Tasty Food For Spring Tables

DELICIOUS sauce for meats may be made of dried apples and peaches. Use equal parts of peaches and apples and soak them three or four hours in cold water. At the end of that time simmer them until they are tender, rub them through a colander and season with sugar, cinnamon or cloves to suit the taste. The sauce makes excellent pies. A little lemon juice either for the sauce or the pie is an improvement.

For light potato croquettes mash and season hot potatoes as if for table, add the yolk of an egg and beat very light. Form the paste into croquette shapes, roll in egg and cracker crumbs and place on ice. Fry in deep fat when the croquettes are very cold.

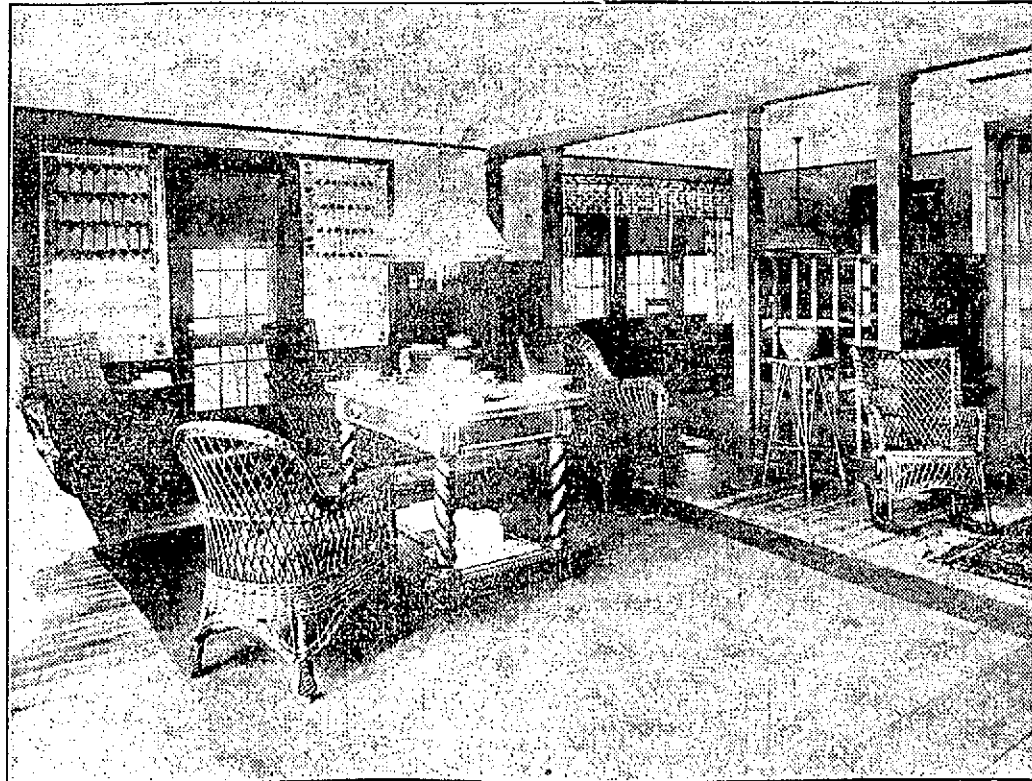

A fair imitation of planked fish may be made on a platter. Put the baked or broiled fish in the center of a dish and rim it with seasoned mashed potatoes dropped around by the tablespoonful in egg shaped portions, alternating with wedges of lemon and sprigs of parsley.

Very thin slices of bread buttered and put together in sandwich fashion with a thin slice of meat or cheese may be toasted on both sides until they are heated through. Serve hot.

Apples fried with bacon make a tasty breakfast dish at this season of the year when the appetite begins to be jaded. Baked apples are delicious served on individual dishes, the apples broken apart and the broken sides and space filled with whipped cream sprinkled with nuts.

A good way to use left over celery is to stew it tender, mixing it with a white sauce and turning it over toast. The water in which the celery boils should be mixed with cream for the sauce, or the water may be used to dip the toast in before the sauce is turned over it.

Artistic Furnishings For the Summer Bungalow

LIVING AND DINING ROOM INEXPENSIVELY FURNISHED.

MANY people of moderate means are nowadays building inexpensive bungalows in which to spend the summer months. In a number of instances these homes are put up by professional women who pool their interests in building, furnishing and running the bungalow.

The object in furnishing such a summer home is to have artistic, serviceable and inexpensive belongings.

The illustration shows the living and dining rooms of an attractive bungalow of inexpensive type, built and occupied during vacation days by four schoolteachers.

The floor covering on the two rooms is of generous sized straw rugs in a charming shade of dull green, with a Greek key border done in a lighter tone of the same color. These straw rugs are very strong, and a 12 by 14

IN THE WORLD OF MODE.

A MOTORING coat of mercerized cotton is a splendid investment and an inexpensive one as well. These coats come in cream and drab color. A silk and cotton mixture makes a serviceable coat, and for summer white drill is smart, although the cost of laundering makes it expensive.

Blues are fashionable this season in many tones. Navy blue, gobein, delft, porcelain, royal, cadet and ciel are some of the shades that find favor. Think of being sent for samples of blue with trimmings to match!

The new veil is of a very coarse silk flit mesh of gossamer-like texture. But the main point about the veil is its arrangement. It is divided in front, falling from the hat in straight lines at each side and the back.

On many white linen coat suits gilt buttons are used to carry out the military air. Crochet buttons that are works of art are used sparingly on linen frocks and shirt waists, and buttons of plated braid carry out the decorations of many cloth costumes.

Quickly printed cottons in old world designs are being made up into blouses for wear with coat and skirt suits, the plain color of the suit being echoed in slight touches on the blouse, or the blouse material finds its way into cuffs and collar on the coat.

The sleeve of raglan or kimono cut is in again. It is none too easy of accomplishment, and there is no cause for dissatisfaction on the part of the amateur who is not wholly successful in her first attempt. It needs a certain breadth of shoulder and should be avoided by those who would gulf width in effect at least. This raglan sleeve in the main has a narrowing effect, but is well suited to the woman of comfortable proportions and generous shoulder measurements.

The Chanticleer Headdress

THIS chanticleer idea has now reached hair ornaments. The fetching arrangement illustrated is made of silver ribbon, with a miniature white coque tail as a finishing decoration to the metallic bands which extend around the back hair dressing and end at the left side.

Japanese paper in a pompadour red shade. These shades, which are very effective and admit of the light shining through in a manner satisfactory for reading, may be bought for $2 apiece.

In the dining room inexpensive mission furniture is used, and at the windows of both apartments the casements are hung with madras curtains of cream color sprigged with green. The door drapery between the rooms is of a soft mahogany brown in monk's cloth. This material is a little more expensive than the denim, which it closely resembles, but the monk's cloth is softer and hangs more gracefully than the stiffer fabric. A stencil of meadow grasses and cattails was applied to the curtain by one of the owners of the bungalow. The wall coverings were the most expensive part of the furnishing. A tawny brown grass cloth goes halfway up the wall space, with a frieze of dull green at the top stenciled with cattails and poppies. A picture molding of bamboo joins the two fabrics.

When the purse is not limited the choice of furnishings for the bungalow to be found in up to date shops is fascinating.

A FINE DRY SHAMPOO.

Some girls who are sensitive to cold dread having their hair shampooed frequently. To keep the scalp clean carefully divide the hair into strands. This loosens all dandruff, which should be taken from the hair by loosening it and holding it at arm's length.

Rubbing the scalp with a sponge dipped in witch hazel is a good substitute for the regular shampoo. There are also certain proprietary preparations for scalp cleaning and dandruff removing which do not necessitate wetting the long hair.

HAIR WORN OFF THE FOREHEAD.

Among the minor essentials of the present coiffure is that an inch of hair at the neck and above the ears must show. The braid or swirl must go above this space. It is not considered correct these days to pin the switch down at the very edge of the line of growth.

Musings of Elinor Hite

THE grownup brother of the family often has a role assigned him—a role he does not take up voluntarily—that of matchmaker for his sisters. And I reckon it is his blissful unconsciousness that enables him to play the part to perfection.

The brotherless girl has fewer chances of meeting eligible men, and when she does the opportunity of cultivating and fostering the acquaintance may not be forthcoming.

True, she may have a matchmaking mother, but this is often a handicap rather than a help.

The unwilling benedict too often discerns the part that a maneuvering mamma is playing in the affair and resents it. But when one of his friends takes him home to dinner or invites him for a week end visit he goes without being in the least aware of the danger there might be in it for a freedom loving bachelor.

The brother is usually blind to the charms of his own womenfolk; that the idea of any one falling in love with them never strikes him, and when at last he realizes the truth he does not always approve of it.

But the brother has no longer any part in the matter; his work is done.

Decidedly the girl with brothers has more advantages, matrimonially speaking, than the girl without. She has everything done for her without any connivance or planning on her own part.

A Pretty Custom

HANGING THE MAY BASKET.

AN old and pretty custom that has survived the practicality of the present age is that of hanging baskets of flowers on front door bells the first day of May. Children delight in this practice. They get up with the lark on this May morning and secure the woods and gardens for blossoms. Small boxes covered with crepe paper or raffia baskets are filled with the flowers, and when nobody is near the door picked out to be beautified with a basket the small girl or boy stealthily creeps up and fastens her offering to the bell or doorknob. The bell is then rung furiously, and in the twinkling of an eye the last thing seen of the donor is a pair of heels and a flutter of skirts in the distance.
